Introduction

The Oklahoma Employment Security Commission (OESC) produced the Licensed and Certified Occupations of Oklahoma. The purpose of the handbook is to provide students, clients, counselors and other interested persons with information concerning occupations that require licensing and certification in Oklahoma.

While there are many additional occupations or careers that may require licensure in Oklahoma, we have limited the occupations in this handbook to those requiring licensure based upon successful completion of an examination and/or those requiring a licensing fee. Although there are many occupations that require licensure by federal regulatory agencies or national professional organizations, these occupations may not meet these criteria and, therefore, may not be included in this handbook.

The occupations included in this handbook are considered licensed and certified. To assist in your utilization of the handbook, understanding of the terminology is necessary. In general, a license grants an individual permission to engage in a given occupation after having obtained the minimum degree of competency necessary to ensure that the public's health, safety, and welfare will be reasonably well protected. A certificate grants an individual permission to use a specific title after having met predetermined qualifications established by the regulatory agency. In practice, few people differentiate between the two forms of award, and certain education, experience, and/or competency standards must typically be met in order to qualify for either award.

There are a variety of sources to obtain additional information on the occupations listed. Many of the licensing entities have web sites that will offer information. You may wish to visit the State of Oklahoma web site at http://www.state.ok.us. Sources for occupational information include the Occupational Outlook Handbook, which is normally available in the Reference section of the library or online at http://stats.bls.gov/ooh. There are of course other excellent sources available on the World Wide Web. The Oklahoma Employment Security Commission (OESC) web site offers links to even more web sites. You may visit the OESC site at http://www.ok.gov/oesc_web.

Note:

The following handbook contains wage information based on survey data from 2012 to 2015 obtained by the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS). The median wage known as the "middle" number, the median is the boundary between the highest 50% and lowest 50% paid in that occupation. Please consult additional wage resources for more precise information.
