

SCOTT MEACHAM
OKLAHOMA STATE TREASURER

For Immediate Release: September 25, 2006

Tulsa State Fair Attendees Can Find “Pot of Gold” At Treasurer’s Unclaimed Property Booth

State Treasurer Scott Meacham is heading to the Tulsa State Fair to help Oklahomans find their unclaimed property. As administrator of Oklahoma’s unclaimed property program, Meacham has more than $175 million for more than 350,000 people.

Meacham and his staff will man a booth in the Expo Building at the fair. This will be the second consecutive year the office has operated the “Pot of Gold” booth at the Tulsa State Fair.

“I’m pleased we can once again bring our staff with laptop computers to conduct searches for patrons of the Tulsa State Fair,” said Meacham. “We are holding millions of dollars in unclaimed property waiting for it to be claimed by its rightful owners. I encourage all fair attendees to stop by our booth to see if we are holding any of their money.”

During last year’s fair the treasurer’s staff found more than $200,000 in unclaimed property belonging to fair attendees.

Examples of unclaimed property include bank accounts, security deposits, uncashed paychecks, overpayments, royalties, rebates, stock and bonds. The contents of abandoned safe deposit boxes are also included.

The cash and property are turned over to the State Treasurer’s office when the businesses holding them lose track of the owners. Treasurer Meacham’s Unclaimed Property Division then publishes the names and conducts other outreach, such as the booth at the state fair, to help find the owners.

The Unclaimed Property booth in the Expo building will be open throughout the fair. Workers will be on hand to offer assistance September 28 through October 8.
