DESCRIPTION

Play Therapy methodologies have been utilized with several different traumas that children and adolescents have experienced. This workshop will focus on healing from sexual abuse for children and adolescents and will offer an overview of the history of play and experiential activities

Specific play therapy techniques such as art therapy, sand tray play, water play, mutual storytelling, puppetry, board games and role plays, will be presented in an experiential learning environment.

Best practices and recent evidenced-based research studies will be presented discussed in relationship to current trends. Experiential activities will be presented and discussed in context of theoretical orientations such as Cognitive-Behavioral, Humanistic, Adlerian, and Gestalt. Come ready to play and learn!

What You Will Learn

- Acquire a working knowledge of play therapy and clinical counseling.
- Learn methods to connect your treatment goals with a child's play needs.
- Participants will be able to identify and perform to play therapy activities from CBT, Humanistic, Adlerian, or Gestalt orientations.
- Participants will be able to identify play therapy methodologies to utilize with different trauma experiences of children.
