OKLAHOMA DEPARTMENT OF CORRECTIONS

2014 - 2015

Recognition Ceremony

by Marilyn Davidson, Communications Office

It is important that we take the time to recognize the valuable state employees who place their lives on the line every day in the name of public safety. This past May the Oklahoma Department of Corrections (ODOC) recognized the nominees for Correctional Officer of the Year, Correctional Officer Supervisor of the Year and Probation and Parole Officer of the Year. The agency also announced the over-all winners for each category. This ceremony was held at the Will Rogers Theatre in Oklahoma City with executive staff and Board of Corrections members in attendance, as well as the nominees and their family members. Attendees were fortunate to hear from our Commissioner of Public Safety, Michael Thompson, as well as the Oklahoma Speaker of the House, Jeff Hickman.

The three winners, along with nominees and finalists, traveled to the Oklahoma State Capitol where they met with Governor Mary Fallin. Afterwards they were recognized on the floor of the Oklahoma House of Representatives by Representative Pam Peterson and presented a citation marking this honor.
