FROM THE DEPUTY DIRECTOR OF COMMUNITY CORRECTIONS

The Division of Community Corrections is responsible for managing offenders who are placed in community corrections facilities and offenders under probation and parole supervision. The Division is a multi-faceted, multi-functional, essential component of the Department of Corrections.

The division has a significant role in meeting the mission of the Department of Corrections. Reducing the rate of recidivism, parole revocation and the cost to incarcerate are core functions of this division. These functions are accomplished through various evidenced-based programs and services provided to the offenders as they enter and exit our correctional system.

Another important function within our division is to provide, when appropriate, alternatives to incarceration through our diversion program initiatives. As you review this report, you will note the successful application of alternative to incarceration programs using evidence-based practices and services.

The reentry process helps prepare offenders to make a safe transition from incarceration to the community and enhances public safety. When offenders return to their respective communities without reoffending, communities are safer, and the investment of correctional resources has yielded positive results. When formerly incarcerated or supervised persons become productive members of society, working to support their families and paying taxes, the community benefits, Community Corrections has served its purpose, and everyone wins. This annual report reflects positive results in this area.

None of this could be possible without the dedication and commitment of Community Corrections staff who continually meet the daily challenges of offering viable alternatives to incarceration for offenders at various stages of the criminal justice process. This report reflects our continued commitment to the vision of offender success and safe communities.

Lawton Community Corrections Center

- Southwest District Community Corrections partnered with the National Association of Blacks in Criminal Justice, Lawton Public Schools, and Cameron University to host At Risk Youth Conference for children of incarcerated parents. Workshop presenters were Wichita Mountain Prevent Network, Lawton Police Special Operations, the Next Level Sports Camp and an offender from Lawton Community Corrections Center. The conference sponsorship was by South Central Oklahoma Workforce, Investment Board Youth Council and Delta Sigma Theta Sorority. There were one hundred (100) attendees.

Community Work Centers

Waurika

- On December 19, 2012 a groundbreaking ceremony was held in Waurika at the site where the new Waurika Community Work Center is being constructed. Representatives from Jefferson County and the town of Ryan were present. KSWO TV from Lawton and the Waurika newspaper were present as well. Senator Don Barrington, Deputy Director Reginald Hines, Administrator of Community Corrections James Rudek, Interim District Supervisor Jeff Woody, Assistant District Supervisor Philip Brandon, and Interim District Supervisor Bill Johnson were also in attendance.

Hobart

- Several offenders from Hobart Community Work Center helped with the Celebration of Freedom Event on Memorial Day Weekend (May 24, 2013 to May 27, 2013). The event helps to support the General Tommy Franks Leadership Institute and Museum which has a traveling exhibition, “Remembering Our Fallen” honoring Oklahomans who made the ultimate sacrifice. The offenders assisted in setting up the stage, picking up trash, taking down the bands equipment and other various duties as needed. The event was a success and the offenders help was greatly appreciated by the City of Hobart.

Probation and Parole - Accomplishments

Tulsa District Community Corrections

- On August 27, 2012, ADS King and ADS Rose, officers Douglas, Owens, Potter, Nenstiel, Harris, Whitehead and Crawford attended the Gender Responsive Assessment for Female Offenders training in the state building auditorium. The session included a review of the current research regarding gender responsive practices, available gender responsive assessment tools, and how gender responsive assessment could improve their work with justice involved women. The training was offered in collaboration with the University of Cincinnati and sponsored by the National Resource Center on Justice Involved Women. The Women In Recovery staff secured funding for the project and brought this new tool to Oklahoma for the first time.

Northeast District Community Corrections

- Throughout the year, NEDCC Team Supervisors, the Assistant District Supervisor and the District Supervisor correspond with local Judges, District Attorneys, Sheriffs; some in planned meetings as well as casual, informal contacts. Probation and Parole Officers' in their respective counties also correspond routinely with local judicial authorities and law enforcement officials. Staff is involved in some of the specialty courts and/or serves on panels in some counties.

Northwest District Community Corrections

- December, 2012 APO I coordinated the 1st Annual Holiday Card Project. This is a community service project aimed at providing the "Respect your Elders" organization that services both Custer and Beckham counties. Offenders volunteered their time and talents toward designing hand-crafted cards from stock paper.

Southeast District Community Corrections

- December 2013 Probation and Parole Officer Gabriel Morse completed 80 hours of Self Defense plus Instructor Certification.
- Officer Gabriel Morse also completed Strategies for Officer Safety & Natural Response Control Tactics Level I in April 2013 at the Correctional Management Institute of Texas.
- First Baptist Church of Madill prepared, delivered, served a complete Thanksgiving meal to the entire population, their visitors and staff working that day.

Central District Community Corrections

- On February 28, 2012, Central District Community Corrections hosted the Board of Corrections meeting, and the ceremonial re-naming of the district to the Jeffery M. McCoy Central District Community Corrections was held during that time.
- District staff attended the National Law Enforcement Officers Memorial Week in Washington D.C., May 13th through May 17th, to honor fallen officer, Jeff McCoy.
- During FY 2013, Female Offender Diversion Officer Latoya High and Team Supervisor Dixon Shelton from Oklahoma County accompanied several Female Diversion clients to an equine therapy session. During this visit, they interacted with the offenders on a therapeutic level and became clients themselves. The equine therapy team worked with both clients and staff regarding boundaries and personality traits that both hinder and produce progress. Female Diversion clients and staff were able to establish a professional understanding of clients' needs and effective communication techniques based on those needs.

Community Residential Services

Community Corrections Centers and Community Work Centers provide an environment conducive for offenders beginning the process of reentry. Community offenders may be assigned to public work programs, facility work programs, or work release status. The Division of Community Corrections accounts for approximately 15% of the agency's total bed space, with a capacity of 3,430 male bed spaces at community correction centers, community work centers, halfway houses, and county jail contracts. The Division operates five community corrections centers and fifteen community work centers and contracts with five private vendors to provide 1,210 additional community beds at eight facilities.

FACILITY MALE CAPACITIES

Each community facility has a dedicated pool of offenders to maintain the facility and support other facility operations. These offenders are assigned to crews such as landscaping, kitchen, maintenance, and orderly services. The remaining offenders work in the community. The majority of the offenders assigned to work centers and community corrections centers participate in the Prisoner Public Works Program. These offenders work for counties, cities, or governmental agencies performing work that would not otherwise be done due to the lack of local workforce and available funding. Offenders assigned to PPWP work crews are paid a maximum of $27.09 per month. Most offenders assigned to halfway houses participate in work release programs as a component of re-entry. These offenders work in salaried jobs in the community. Employment provides the offender the opportunity to prepare to meet financial obligations upon release as well as to reimburse the state for a portion of their cost of incarceration.

All community facilities have a number of beds dedicated to the work release program. In FY '13, there were approximately 1,404 work release beds. These offenders paid a total of $4,175,120 in program support fees to the agency. Through this employment program, the offender is able to contribute financially to his/her family and a portion of their earnings are placed into a mandatory savings account for the offenders upon discharge.

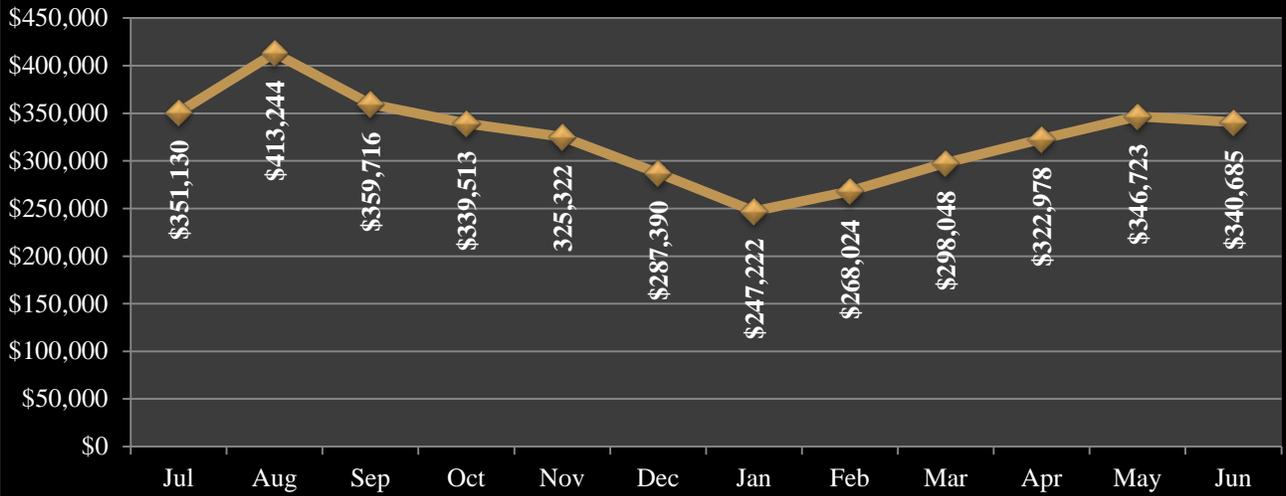

The Community Corrections Centers/Work Centers has 16% of the total work release bed allocation and collected 30% of the total program support fees. Community contract facilities have 84% of the total work release bed space and collected 70% of total program support fees.

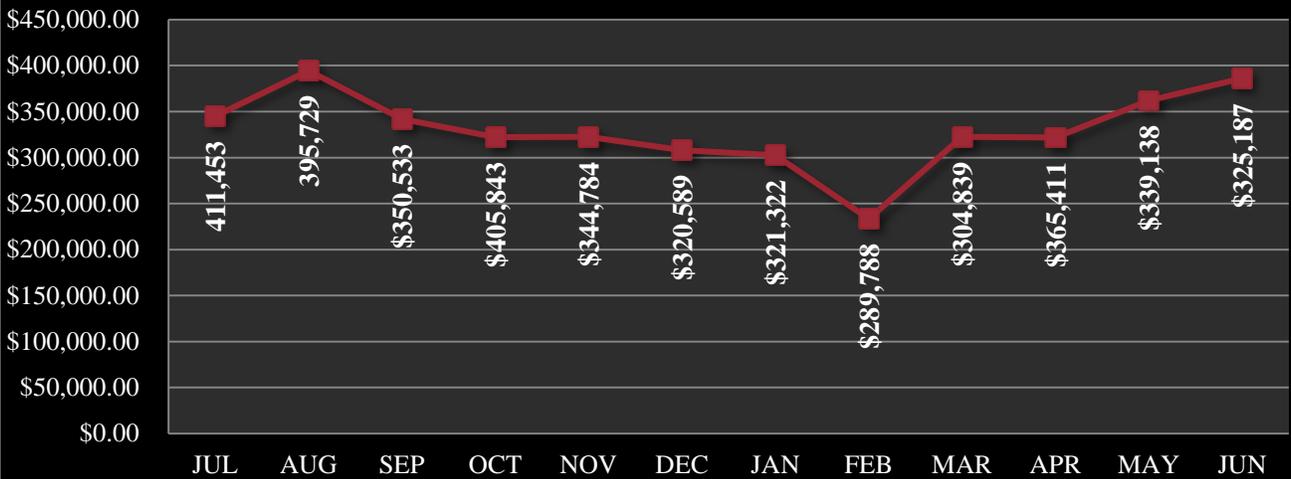

Assignment to a Community Corrections Center or a Community Work Center benefits the offender by providing transitional services to prepare the offender for reentry into the community. The department and the citizens of Oklahoma benefit from the cost savings realized by placement in a community bed compared to the cost of a higher security bed. Other benefits include the payment of program support fees from the offender and the community work completed by offenders assigned to PPWP work crews.

Programs

A 100-hour transitional program was implemented at the Muskogee, Oklahoma City, and Union City Community Corrections Center. This program is designed to target offenders who are close to discharging their sentence. The program provides offenders with resources to locate housing, employment, health care services, etc., prior to release.

Community Corrections offenders participate in a variety of on-site and community-based programs. Programs are provided by contract staff, agency staff or volunteers from the faith community.

Seeking Safety was implemented at Clara Waters Community Corrections Center. Seeking Safety is an evidence based practice designed to assist men to attain safety from trauma and substance abuse. This group intervention is delivered by a master’s level mental health clinician and is characterized as offering coping skills for substance abuse, restores individual hope, engages the offender through humanistic language, creative exercises and addresses pro social subjects important in the criminal justice system. In FY’ 12 a total of seventy men began the Seeking Safety intervention; forty-one have completed the intervention, giving a completion rate of 59%. Due to lack of funding Seeking Safety did not have any participants for FY 13.

CONTRACT TREATMENT PROGRAMS

The Division has two contracts with Center Point, Inc., one contract provides for residential substance abuse treatment and the other contract provides for follow up services in Osage County. The Substance Abuse program is located in Oklahoma City and provides treatment services for 150 male offenders during a six month residential program. One hundred eighty-three offenders successfully completed the program in the last fiscal year.

COMMUNITY CONTRACT FACILITIES

The Division of Community Corrections plays an active role in the reentry process. Studies have indicated that offenders employed at the time of release are less likely to recidivate than those offenders released directly to the streets without employment. Approximately 1,932 pending offenders transferred to work release programs located at contract facilities.

Probation and Parole/Community Corrections

Probation and Parole is the unit of the DOC responsible for the supervision of offenders sentenced by the court to suspended and deferred probationary sentences, offenders released from incarceration to parole, offenders released to Global Position Satellite Monitoring and Electronic Monitoring for DUI Offenders, and offenders residing in Oklahoma who were sentenced in other states. The unit is responsible for investigations ordered by the courts, the pardon and parole board or the Department. These investigations include, but are not limited to, pre-sentence, pre-parole, Interstate Compact, and pre-pardon.

The Division of Probation and Parole employs Evidence Based Practices (EBP) in the supervision of offenders. EBP supervision is designed with theory, research, public policy, and practice; all supportive of each other, leading to measurable supervision outcomes. The long term goal of supervision is the reduction of offender risk through enhancing offender's intrinsic motivation for pro-social change. EBP focuses limited resources on those offenders with moderate to high criminogenic risk factors. Criminogenic risk factors are matched with intervention programs to reduce the likelihood of future law violating behavior. EBP emphasizes outcomes over process.

Probation and parole operates sixty-seven offices state-wide. At the close of FY'13, there were 18,215 active offenders and 6,678 administratively supervised offenders under the custody and supervision of the Division of Community Corrections.

Specialty Courts

Probation and Parole has been an active partner in specialty courts throughout the state, having been the provider of supervision services to the first drug court in Oklahoma. At year's end, eleven officers were assigned full time to drug court supervision, three officers were assigned to mental health court supervision and one was assigned to DUI court supervision. These specialty courts, with DOC supervision in place, accounted for 1,451 offenders.

Employment

Stable and satisfying employment is a primary component of socialization and provides a source of social bonding. Employment stability depends on the pro-social rewards received. Lack of consistent employment indicates a higher risk for criminal behavior. Because of this, the employment module serves as a protective factor for an offender. The employment rate for actively supervised offenders at year end was 86%.

Absconders from Supervision

Each year, many offenders under community supervision experience events that result in their failure to participate in the supervision process. Failure to adhere to the court's orders, lack of adherence to the negotiated transition plan, or economic difficulties may influence this decision. When these offenders abscond supervision, officers work diligently to locate and re-involve them in the supervision process. At the end of the fiscal year, the absconder rate, (percentage of offenders classified as absconders) was 10.9%

Telecommunications

The Telecommunications Office compiles all criminal background checks for the Division of Community Corrections. This includes FBI, OSBI, DPS and out of state criminal records requests. During FY '13 the unit processed 28,952 transactions for the district offices. Based on the number of transactions required for each request, this equates to over 10,188 rap sheets processed for criminal records data.

Global Position Satellite Monitoring Program Summary

The Global Positioning Satellite Program continues to meet the agency's mission of providing secure confident and supervision of offenders and the reduction of recidivism. Upon serving a period of secure confident in a DCO facility, non-violent inmates are placed in the community and monitored using GPS tracking technology. These inmates are allowed to seek employment opportunities and participate in community-based treatment programs and services in the community where eventually they will return upon discharge from confinement.

At the end of FY 2013, 1351 inmates were placed on supervision released using GPS tracking devices. A total of 683 inmates exited the program. Program violations or administrative removals accounted for 13 percent of the total population placed on the program. The average daily population of inmates on this program was 684.

The cost of GPS monitoring in FY '13 was $1,208,054.87 for equipment and monitoring expense. With an average daily bed cost of $39.67, the savings realized by the use of the GPS program was $7,892,430.

Electronic Monitoring Program for DUI Offenders

Participants in the Electronic Monitoring Program for DUI offenders complete a substance abuse program, prior to their release into the community. Upon release, to enforce abstinence from alcohol and accountability, DOC requires these offenders to wear a continuous transdermal alcohol monitoring unit which measures the presence of alcohol. The evidence-based tool along with officer supervision provides valuable information that is used to tailor individualized supervision plans and follow-up treatment programs.

The program is supervised by probation and parole officers. During FY '13, thirty three offenders were monitored for alcohol EM program.

Electronic Monitoring Activity

The cost for monitoring services in FY '13 was $23,706.90.

During FY '13, 1,475 community supervised offenders were retained or revoked to prison. These revocations consisted of 99 (7.0%) parole offenders, 178 (11.0%) specialty court offenders and 1,217 (82.0%) probation offenders.

Revocation By Supervision Status

■ Parole ■ Specialty Court ■ Probation

Treatment Services

Treatment Services were again suspended from the budget during FY'13 due to budget constraints. The only treatment services resources were provided through the DMHSAS – SPTU funds statewide and the Weed-N-Seed Grant.

The Department of Mental Health and Substance Abuse Services each year sets up contracts statewide for community offenders who are in need of treatment services.

Central District Community Corrections, in conjunction with the City of Oklahoma City, was offered grant funds to help offenders with gang ties that are living in the Oklahoma City area.

Supervision Module Placement

Supervision activities are based on the offender's identified criminogenic risk factors. These risk factors are identified through the administration of the Level of Service Inventory-Revised. This is an actuarial risk assessment tool that has been validated on Oklahoma's offender population.

Administered by the supervising probation and parole officer, the LSI-R provides recommended supervision modules that are designed to impact the individual criminogenic risk factors of each offender.

Intermediate Sanctions

The Division of Community Corrections utilizes intermediate sanctions in response to technical violations. The use of sanctions by an offender allows for a quick response and lessens the burden of the courts in having to deal with these violations. These sanctions range from a verbal reprimand to jail time. In the FY '13, 4,583 sanctions were imposed; these sanctions also included those imposed by specialty courts.

Intermediate Sanctions Imposed

Parole and Interstate Services Unit

The Parole and Interstate Services Unit manages the Interstate Compact for Adult Offender Supervision, parole revocation process, and telecommunications services.

The Interstate Compact Office is responsible for processing and monitoring the transfers of all probationers and parolees who transfer in or out of state.

The executive revocation officer is responsible for reviewing warrant requests to ensure appropriate intermediate sanctions were implemented prior to requesting a warrant.

In FY '13 there were 29 warrants for technical violations issued and 104 warrants for a combination of technical violations and new charges.

Diversion Program

Since program inception in May 2007, the Diversion Program focused on prison-bound probation offenders exhibiting chronic, noncompliant behaviors and supervision infractions that typically lead to acceleration or revocation. The primary goal of this program continues to be the diversion of this population from incarceration.

Diversion officers employ the following supervision practices to increase positive offender outcomes through identified risk reduction; risks that, if unresolved; oftentimes lead to problem behavior and criminal activity.

- Collaboration with community based service agencies.
- Provision for more intensive supervision.

- Utilization of incentives, interventions and sanctions to bring offenders into compliance; and
- Involvement of offenders' capable guardian in transition planning and case management.

In essence, the program has provided offenders with access to resources to assist with life changing choices. A specialized team of probation officers work closely with officials from the District Attorney and Public Defender's offices, as well as treatment and service providers.

A containment team, designed to monitor offender progress while under high-risk supervision, is utilized and consists of probation officers, treatment providers, workforce and employment services, mental health professionals, career tech and literacy instructors. Diversion plans are developed in conjunction with established transition plans and programmatic placement. The team conducts monthly staffing to discuss issues relative to offender programmatic progress and determine the best course of action to enable success for the offender.

Diversion Statistics

Central District Community Corrections Diversion Program

Since program inception in May 2007, the Jeffery M. McCoy Central District Community Corrections Diversion Program for Oklahoma County has focused on prison-bound probation offenders exhibiting chronic, non-compliant behaviors and supervision infractions that typically lead to acceleration or revocation. The primary goal of this program continues to be the diversion of this population from incarceration.

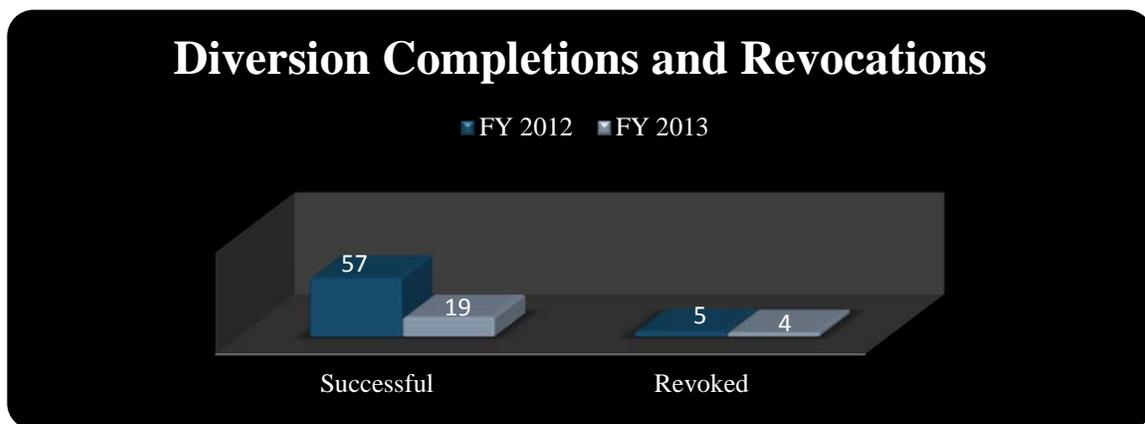

The Diversion Program has had a significant fiscal impact on the state by saving taxpayers the exorbitant costs associated with incarceration. The following supervision practices are utilized and designed to increase positive offender outcomes through identified risk reduction; risks that, if unresolved, could lead to problem behavior and criminal activity. Collaboration with community based service agencies, provision for more intensive supervision, utilization of incentives, interventions and sanctions to bring offenders into compliance; and involvement of offenders' capable guardian in transition planning and case management.

Implemented during May 2007, Central District's Diversion Program has had an ongoing and significant impact on our continuous goal of diverting technical violating offenders from incarceration. Through FY 2013, 429 offenders have been supervised by the district's Diversion Team, with over 90% (N=393) successfully diverted from a term of incarceration.

Since inception, only 36 program participants (>10%) have been revoked to a term of incarceration in the Oklahoma Department of Corrections. The program has been and continues to be an overwhelming success, both in terms of fiscal impact and ability to affect pro-social change, thereby diverting a large number of offenders from prison.

The Diversion Program has utilized state funds more efficiently by diverting these 393 clients from revocation. The overall annual savings, comparing probation supervision vs. average cost of incarceration, is $6.9 million. Through fiscal years 2008 and 2013, the average savings is $1.15 million annually and $3,151 per day.

Of the 23 offenders released from the Diversion Program during FY 2013, 19 (83%) were successful, while 4 (17%) were revoked to incarceration in the Oklahoma Department of Corrections. This represents an 8% reduction in the district's success rate, when compared with FY 2012 outcomes.

Diversion Clients By Gender

FY 2012 FY 2013

Fiscal year 2013 ended with 18 active clients; 11 (61%) males and 7 (39%) females.

During FY2013, the Diversion Program serviced 13 African Americans. Five participants were Caucasian.

Employment

Employment and services continue to be a challenge during FY2013, which may be attributed to their education level and substance abuse issues at program entry.

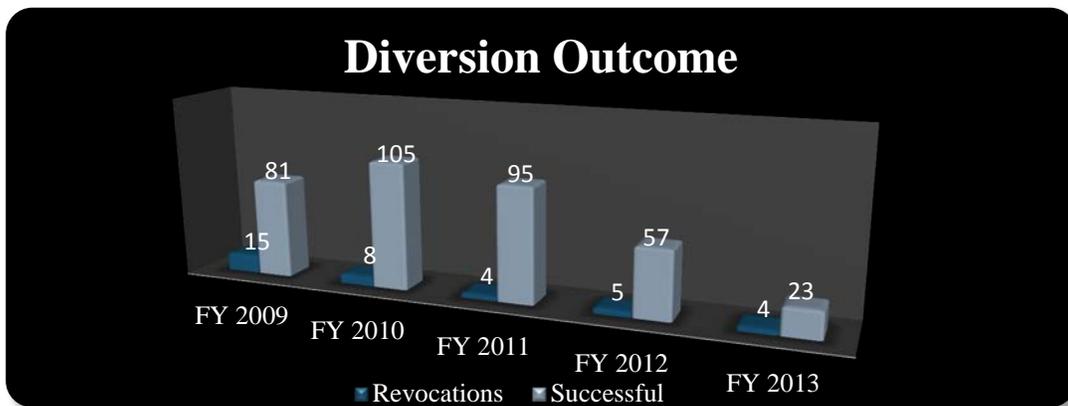

In FY 2013, 56% offenders were employed, either full-time or part-time, representing a 13% increase over the previous FY. There was a slight increase (1%) in the number of offenders who were unemployed and able to work (33%). 11% of the participants were unable or not required to work.

The Oklahoma unemployment rate as of May 2013 was 5.0%, while the national unemployment rate was 7.6%.

Outcome Measures

The Central District Diversion Program was implemented during May 2007, and since that time has successfully diverted 393 offenders from incarceration, representing a cumulative success rate of over 90%. Only 36 participants have been revoked to a term of incarceration within the Oklahoma Department of Corrections during this time period (May 2007-June 2013).

Tulsa District Community Corrections Diversion Program

As of June 30, 2013, there were 96 offenders on diversion caseloads in Tulsa County, 11 males and 85 females. The Male Diversion program started in July 2009, and the Female Diversion program started on March 8, 2010. In Tulsa, the criteria for being accepted into each program differs somewhat, due to the female program having federal grant money supporting the program. The main criteria that is consistent for both programs is the fact that the offenders are considered high-risk for re-offending. The main issues these offenders have in common are substance abuse, mental health issues and non-complaint behaviors.

The following charts show the total number of clients participating in identified modules out of a total of 96 offenders, in percent form, as of June 30, 2013.

The greater majority of the high-risk females range from age 21 through 35, and the overall unemployment rate for offenders in the program is 57% statewide and 60% in Tulsa County. These are important statistics for young individuals, especially women, who many times find they are raising children on their own. Of that 60%, 76.47% are actively seeking employment.

For the female offender diversion program, all clients obtain their counseling through Family and Children’s Services. If there is need for services that their agency does not provide, they contract out with other agencies. For example, any offender that is in need of domestic violence counseling, they obtain treatment from Domestic Violence Intervention Services.

Tulsa District Community Corrections Diversion Program

The offenders in the male diversion program obtain treatment counseling from various treatment providers throughout the greater Tulsa area, depending on their needs.

Referrals for the female diversion program come from other officers who have clients in violation, but that are not severe enough for requesting revocation or those that are sentenced directly into the program by the court. Tulsa District female diversion officers have also completed eight (8) LSI-only reports and four (4) Pre-sentence Investigations from July 2012 through June 2013, to determine program eligibility.

The only other county that currently has a federally funded female diversion program is Oklahoma County, and although both counties have similar participation with respect to age groups, the following chart reflects the age groups for participants in Tulsa County.

Southwest District Community Corrections Diversion Program

There have been 28 new offenders placed into the Diversion Program as well as 13 clients that were carried over from the prior reporting period. There were six (6) offenders that were re-instated due to new technical violations which are not included in the offender total. Forty-one (41) offenders have participated, completed, or failed the diversion agreement referrals in Southwest District Community Corrections (SWDCC Lawton), 33 males and 8 females. Referrals to the program involve clients that are considered a high-risk to reoffend and have substance abuse issues, mental health issues and/or non-compliant technical violations. The funding for treatment has been exhausted and this presents a problem when referring clients for diversion. Also, the Comanche County District Attorney's Office is conducting Drug Court and District Attorney Supervision which limits the number of offenders that can be placed into the program.

However, our primary treatment providers are Jim Taliaferro Mental Health Center for mental health and substance abuse (dual diagnosis), Roadback Inc. and Comanche Nation Recovery Program for substance abuse issues. The opening of the James C. Johnson Sober Living Center for Women has come to a standstill due to a lack of funding and there has not been any progress reported. Comanche Nation Recovery had attempted to open a residential treatment program but it has never developed into reality to date.

The following shows the total number of clients completing/participating in identified modules out of the 41 offenders.

Justice Reinvestment Initiative Program (JRI)

In May 2012, state leaders from across the political spectrum in Oklahoma enacted legislation that both produces savings in corrections spending and increase public safety. Using a data-driven “justice reinvestment” approach, the state received intensive technical assistance from the Council of State Governments (CSG) Justice Center, in partnership with the Pew Center on the States and the United States Department of Justice’s Bureau of Justice Assistance (BJA). After a comprehensive analysis of Oklahoma’s criminal justice system, the CSG Justice Center presented to a bipartisan, inter-branch working group findings that showed that Oklahoma faces three significant challenges.

1. Oklahoma’s violent crime rate is high and has remained relatively unchanged since 2000; during the same period, violent crime has declined significantly nationally and in most states.
2. Fifty-one percent of felons exiting prison are released to no supervision, and they do not have access to treatment services needed to keep them drug and alcohol-free.
3. If current policies remain the same, the prison population will continue to grow, and the state will need to expand prison capacity at a significant cost to taxpayers.

With help from the CSG Justice Central and input from stakeholders across the criminal justice system, the working group developed a set of policy options designed to address these three challenges. State legislation then translated those policies into House Bill (HB) 3052, which was sponsored by Speaker of the House Kris Steele (R-Shawnee) and Senate President Pro Tempore Brian Bingman (R-Sapulpa). HB3052 accomplished the following:

1. Established a state-funded “Justice Reinvestment Grant Program” to provide local law enforcement agencies with funding for initiatives and innovative strategies to combat crime.
2. Instituted a presentence risk and needs screening process to help guide decisions regarding the most appropriate level of punishment, supervision, and treatment for each individual.
3. Mandated supervision for all adults release from prison and ensured that supervision resources are sufficient to reduce recidivism.
4. Created the ability to impose more cost-efficient and meaningful responses to violations among those on probation supervision.

HB3052 passed with bipartisan support in both houses of the legislature. Governor Mary Fallin signed the bill into law on May 10, 2012. The effective date of the law was November 1, 2012.

Since the implementation of the program, the Division of Community Corrections districts have recommended 98 individual for Intermediate Revocation Facility placement.

1. The Division currently has 53 active Intermediate Revocation Facility revocation recommendations on pending court dockets across the state of Oklahoma.
2. There have been Court Modifications made to IRF Recommendations. There have been 45 offenders that have had their IRF Recommendations modified, dismissed, and/or revoked in full.
3. There have been 18 offenders sanctioned by the courts to DOC IRF. 12 of these offenders have been processed and transferred to DOC IRF’s (4 males to LARC and 8 females have been received at MBARC). Five males sanctioned to IRF are being housed at BJCC from. One offender is pending transfer to LARC/DOC.
4. Four of the above mentioned male offenders have been processed, served their six months and released from IRF or DOC facilities.
5. All of the eight females received by DOC for IRF placement have been assigned to MBMU.
6. Seven of these above mentioned eight IRF females assigned to the MBMU have discharged. There is only one IRF sanctioned female and she is currently at MBCC.

Oklahoma County Jail Program

The Oklahoma County Jail Contract Facility houses 298 medium security inmates in three housing units located on the 10th floor of the Oklahoma County Detention Center at 201 N. Shartel, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. The staffing currently includes an Administrator, three Case Managers and a Records Officer. The following programs: ABE, GED, Laubach, literacy, NA and AA are offered to the offenders housed in the contract facility.

During FY13: two hundred eighty-three (283) new offenders were received at the contract facility. One hundred and eleven (111) offenders were able to go to court to take care of outstanding, new charges or probation revocation cases pending against them at the beginning of their sentences instead of at the end of their sentences. Five (5) additional offenders went to court for judicial reviews. Thirty-nine (39) offenders discharged from this facility. Four (4) offenders discharged to ICE, seventeen (17) to probation and eighteen (18) went home without any additional supervision. Two Hundred fifty-nine (259) offenders transferred to other facilities: ninety-eight (98) to medium security facilities and one hundred sixty-one (161) to minimum security facilities.

The misconduct process is continues to be monitored by the ODOC staff and the Private Prison Monitor in an effort to assist the Oklahoma County Detention Center in following through on the completion of the disciplinary process once a misconduct has been written for an offender violation. The process has improved with the training and recertification of the Oklahoma County Detention Center during May 2013.
