

SOMEONE YOU SHOULD KNOW

by Kathy King
District Supervisor
Tulsa County District Community Corrections (TCDCC)

I would like to introduce you to TCDCC's, 2014 Rookie of the Year, Adrean King. Adrean is the Administrative Programs Officer for TCDCC residential units, Avalon and Center Point Osage. Her duties include the tracking, accuracy and completion of the transfer packets that are returning offenders to institutions and placing them on GPS. She is responsible for the offenders housed at the Tulsa County Jail, the Creek County Jail and the Prisoner

Public Work Programs. Adrean conducts numerous trainings throughout the year which includes municipality's PPWP training, volunteer orientation and PREA training for the district.

Adrean is a five-year public service veteran. She received her Associates of Arts in Criminal Justice in 2011, and Bachelors of Science in Justice Administration in 2013, both from Rogers State University in Claremore, Oklahoma. In 2009, she was named Nowata, Oklahoma's Girl of the Year. In 2010, she graduated from N.E.W. (National Education for Women's) Leadership Institute with the Carl Albert Center in Norman, Oklahoma. In 2010-2011, serving as President of the Student Government Association, she led all student organizations through major changes in structure. Finishing in 2013, she served as Chair of the Oklahoma Intercollegiate Legislature's (O.I.L.) Senate Rules Committee, where she led student Senators through drafting legislation that would appear before the Oklahoma Legislature after passage. Currently, she is focused on her career with Oklahoma Department of Corrections, and also serves as a mentor for young government students in her community. She now resides in Claremore, Oklahoma with her husband and spends her free time with family and friends.
