Review of 11/19/15 Minutes: Minutes Approved

Updates:

- Faith-Based Health Equity Project –Marshan Marick, Langston University
 - Marshan Marick, Langston University, OHEC Steering Committee Member:
In February of 2015 we reconvened partners from the Faith and Community-Based organizations who met at the Together for Health Summits in 2014 to discuss what kind of action we could have based on the reactions about health inequity in Oklahoma. We began discussing how we could gain consensus, and we decided to enter into a study using the Delphi Method.
Some preliminary results are: The most important thing facing the state regarding health equity as it relates to Faith and Community Based organizations are areas that the Oklahoma Health Equity Campaign (OHEC) are currently focusing on.
 - Looking at available resources and providing resources.
 - Addressing Health Literacy and providing services
 - Examining what we can do as a collective body, and to be really engaged in advocacy.

We will be gathering all the data to present a formal report to OHEC and its partners about the next step and how we can have action around the results and what that action will mean.

- Transportation:

- Public Health & Corridor Transportation Planning- Larry Hopper, EMBARK/Central Oklahoma Public Transportation Authority:

In partnership with ACOG, Oklahoma County Health Department, Oklahoma City Planning Department, Oklahoma Health Equity Campaign (OHEC) and other business partners we began working on the Northwest Corridor Multi-Model Transportation Plan. It began as a bus rapid transit (BRT) plan for Classen & NW Expressway and turning that route into a corridor that is easier to ride the bus on. The corridor was selected as one of two in the United States that would look at health and planning principals for transportation corridors. We are awaiting a case-study report from the US Department of Transportation on our study, when received we will complete the planning report. We've received great feedback from our partners from the business community.

Benefits of the plan include:

- To help visualize transit, especially (BRT) and other improvements
- To imagine ways to improve community health.
- Improvements are for transit customers, bicyclists, and pedestrians, as well as motorists, ways to change public health that can boost mobility.
- Having more grocery stores that you can walk to in the area.
- Ways to get to and from different clinics, hospitals and to the exercise and health care areas.

Oklahoma City is one of five beta testing sites in the country selected to roll model what communities could actually integrate into their transportation planning processes as it relates to health.

[Power Point available upon request]

Requests for Announcements and Final Comments: Richard Marshall, OHEC Steering Committee Chair

- Leslie Gelders, Oklahoma Department of Libraries (ODL) have purchased sets of the “Raising of America” video series to be placed around the state in public libraries. If you are interested in showing the video, you may check out the video series from your local library beginning in April. Video clips are available for smaller audiences and groups unable to show the entire video. OETA will be airing the video in April during National Public Health Week beginning April 5th. If you are interested in hosting a viewing of this series, we would love to help you promote the event. We can supply you the questions we used here today or you are welcome to come up with your own questions.

- Steve Goldman, Oklahoma Primary Care Association (OKPCA): Oklahoma Affordable Care Act (ACA) health insurance sign-ups were up dramatically, approximately 17% which makes Oklahoma the 10th highest increase in the country in terms of the marketplace plans from United Healthcare and Blue Cross and Blue Shield. In Oklahoma, the enrollment has been widespread across both rural (37% of sign-ups) and urban areas (63% of sign-ups). Open enrollment has closed but special enrollment remains open through the year for qualifying events. Survivors of domestic violence or spousal abandonment have an anytime special enrollment period. Insure Oklahoma from the State Healthcare Authority will be starting a new application period beginning March 14th.
- Jade Owens, Oklahoma Nutrition and Education Project (ONIE): The ONIE Project, Oklahoma Department of Agriculture and several community partners will be hosting the 2nd Annual Oklahoma Farmers Market conference which will be held on March 10th 9-3 pm at the Cole Community Center at 4400 NW Expressway, OKC 73116. Registration closes on March 3, 2016. <http://www.onieproject.org/farmersmarket>
- Richard Marshall, OHEC Chair: We would like to invite everyone to visit the Oklahoma Health Equity Campaign Website, www.okhealthequity.org to learn more about Health Equity, Health Literacy, Transportation and Health, Food Security and Health and Housing and Health.
- Marisa New, OSDH Health Equity and Resource Opportunities Division: The next two OHEC Partnership Meetings have been scheduled.
April 14th – 2-4 pm, in Room 806 at OSDH
Information on accessible housing as well as going smoke free in housing will be presented. We will be partnering with Progressive Independence as well as Metropolitan Fair Housing for this event.
May 12th – 2-4 pm in Room 806 at OSDH
Presentations concerning the results of the Affordability Housing Study conducted by various community organizations will be discussed.
