About Us...

The Bryan County Turning Point Coalition became a Turning Point partnership in 2002. Coalition Members represent many sectors of the community that contributes to the coalition's successes and effectiveness. Serving as a role model to other counties, the BCTPC is a leader in drug, alcohol and tobacco initiatives and prevention strategies. In 2008, energies have also focused a Healthy Workforce, Literacy, Injury Prevention (Traffic Safety), fitness, nutrition and school health. This partnership believes in the Turning Point philosophy that only through a community-based, decision-making process where community citizens taps into their own resources, strengths, and visions is when we can effectively promote positive and sustainable changes in the public's health and the public health system.
