Emergency Medical Services and Trauma System

Emergency medical services (EMS) or prehospital care, are provided in urgent situations at the time and place of event and continue through admittance to the emergency room or hospital, when hospital staff initiate specialized care. Emergency medical and trauma services are organized as a statewide system and network to reach, treat, and transfer patients to the most appropriate facility as soon as possible. Regional field personnel for the EMS Division coordinate services in the eight geographical regions. The four levels of EMS care, corresponding to the training and experience of staff are: basic life support, intermediate life support, paramedic life support, and specialty care.

- Basic Life Support indicates the “minimum standard” as set forth by State law. Provision of EMS care is provided on a 24-hour, 365 days per year basis;
- Intermediate Life Support indicates that personnel and equipment are at the Intermediate level of care;
- Paramedic Life Support indicates that the personnel and equipment are at the Paramedic level of care;
- Specialty Care indicates that the personnel and equipment meet specific and special needs required for inter-facility transport of critical care. Specialty Care need not operate on a 24-hour basis.

Type of Radio Communication:

The three methods of dispatching are:

- 1) provider – ambulances are dispatched directly by the ambulance service at their base station;
- 2) central – ambulances are dispatched by a radio utilized for dispatching more than just ambulance vehicles; and
- 3) regional – ambulances from several different providers are dispatched through a multiple city/county base station.

In the majority of communities EMS may be reached by dialing 911. Areas not covered by 911 have a specific number(s) to call in emergencies. There are four levels of trauma system care in Oklahoma, one hospital is classified as Level I (highest), 2 as level II, 29 as Level III and the remainder are classified as Level IV. The higher the level, the more stringent criteria are in place such as 24-hour presence of surgeons, neurosurgeons, and the availability of advanced equipment and diagnostic ability. The following map shows the type of EMS coverage provided across the state.

Acute Care Hospitals

(Contact information subject to change)

Acute care hospitals are the principal source of a wide array of services in the community including emergency and hospital care, varying levels of rehabilitation, and outpatient services. Hospital providers are responsible for giving referral to services provided in the hospital after discharge or referral to services in other locations. Acute care hospitals are usually accredited by The Joint Commission. Head injury patients who experience problems or lasting effects should return for care to the hospital where they received treatment, because history of the injury and care received are in the medical records, and physicians can better review the case. Local hospitals also provide basic health care through clinics and programs.

Long Term Acute Care Hospitals

(See Definition of Terms)

Long term acute care (LTAC) hospitals may be housed within an acute care hospital or free standing. They provide specialized care for medical patients who are critically ill or have multi-system complications that require aggressive and continuous acute care services. Long term acute care hospitals have an average length of stay (LOS) of 25 days. They provide 6.5 to 8.5 nursing hours per day based on acuity (amount of nursing time needed to assist/teach patients in activities of daily living such as eating, grooming, and toileting.) The acuity of therapy is based on diagnosed need and patient tolerance. There are no maximums or minimums by guidelines and not all patients receive therapy. Patients are usually discharged to home with family or Home Health, a nursing home, a skilled nursing facility (SNF), assisted living, or rehabilitation.

Oklahoma Acute Rehabilitation Centers

Rehabilitation centers may occupy either a separate unit or department within an acute care hospital or a free-standing facility associated with a hospital devoted exclusively to rehabilitation. Inpatient rehabilitation centers are usually accredited by The Joint Commission and seek accreditation of Certification of Rehabilitation Facilities (CARF). The number and types of services may vary according to patients' needs. A comprehensive treatment program has the goal to reduce/overcome deficits following illness or injury and to assist individuals to attain their optimal level of mental and physical ability, and useful, productive activity. The process involves a planned, orderly sequence of multiple, coordinated services related to the total needs of the individual. Services may be delivered within acute care services, a separate hospital unit, separate facility, or on an outpatient basis as the patient's condition improves. The scope of rehabilitation services for individuals with TBI is diverse, requiring careful diagnosis and assessment of physical, cognitive and behavioral impairments. The team of TBI rehabilitation specialists may include a physician, physiatrist, nurse, neuropsychologist, psychologist, recreational therapist, physical therapist, occupational therapist, speech/language pathologist, special educator, exercise physiologist, counselor, social worker, and case manager. When the patient is ready to benefit from rehabilitation, the patient/family and physician attempt to select a center that treats a large number of TBI patients and has the professional staff available. Many for-profit organizations/centers in Oklahoma provide outpatient rehabilitation services. Those centers are not included here.

Oklahoma City Service Area Indian Health Center Locations Tribal Health Center Locations

Oklahoma City Service Area includes Holton, Lawrence, and Wichita Kansas, and Dallas Texas

Indian and Tribal service units and health centers in Oklahoma provide basic prevention and health services to the majority of Native Americans in the state, and to all individuals who seek care in the facilities. People who suffer more severe injuries or medical problems are often transferred to a larger facility for special care. The Indian centers maintain complete records of patients' emergency room, clinic visits, and hospital admissions for easy reference and follow up. People who sustain brain injury and are treated in a larger facility are usually followed by the admitting facility and their Indian Center.

County Health Departments, Oklahoma

County health departments (CHDs) provide a wide array of basic health and public health services and social services such as immunizations, education to prevent disease and injury, women/infant/child (WIC) nutrition program, injury prevention programs, therapies and counseling, Child Guidance and other children's services, treatment of minor conditions, and referral to needed services. Many persons with head injury need a variety of services in the community as well as care specific for the injury's long-term effects. Services provided by each CHD are available to all residents in the county according to program guidelines. Services may include early intervention, speech/language/physical/occupational therapy, behavior modification, housing assistance, assistive devices, HIV referral, TB testing, family planning, home health safety, and disease prevention.
