The Oklahoma PACT Model

The PACT model has been in existence nationally for nearly 30 years and is an effective, evidenced-based, outreach-oriented, service delivery model using a 24-hour-per-day, seven-days-per-week approach to community based mental health services. PACT delivers comprehensive treatment, rehabilitation and supportive services to consumers in their homes, at work and in community settings. The program reaches clients that traditional services can't seem to engage. A major goal of PACT is to reduce the need for inpatient care by providing assistance with basic needs, increasing medication compliance, keeping families together, and securing competitive employment.
