

HANNAH MARCHANT

Biography

Hannah Marchant serves as the Executive Assistant for the Oklahoma Film & Music Office (OF&MO). Marchant began working with OF&MO in October of 2012, and has assisted with the office internship program and developing the weekly newsletter, This Week in Film & Music. She now assists the Director and Deputy Director and serves as the first point of contact for anyone contacting OF&MO.

Graduating from Southern Nazarene University in Bethany, Oklahoma with a multi-disciplinary degree in graphic design and mass communications, Marchant was involved in Student Development as a Resident Advisor, served the Echo Newspaper as the Opinions Editor and worked in the Art & Design Department as the Administrative Assistant. Upon graduation, she interned in the marketing department of Nazarene Publishing House, located in Kansas City, Missouri.

While studying for her Bachelor's Degree, Marchant had the opportunity to study abroad in Sydney, Australia, where she studied acting and the history of Australia and its indigenous culture. Marchant spent the summer of 2011 living in Bethlehem and traveling through the West Bank and Israel. While there, she volunteered as an Administrative and Research Assistant at Holy Land Trust, a nonprofit organization in Bethlehem.

Marchant has participated in volunteer roles at The Club, an after school program, and The Spero Project, a non-profit organization dedicated to developing relationships and working with refugees in the Oklahoma City area.
