

2009 Practitioner Symposium

Hosted by the
Oklahoma Tax Commission

The Oklahoma Tax Commission has announced they will once again be presenting free seminars for tax professionals this fall. These seminars are geared towards the income tax return preparer community and will provide an update on the latest tax law changes.

These seminars will also inform them of several other electronic services available to the practitioner community and their clients.

This free 8-hour session is for tax professionals who are gearing up for the 2010 income tax filing season.

Come listen to representatives from the Oklahoma Tax Commission, Internal Revenue Service, and the Social Security Administration to learn the latest changes to the tax laws as well as updates on electronic filing, electronic services, and more.
