- Division's Counsel is to email the electronic copies of Stipulated Exhibits 6, 7, and 12. The undersigned will review the electronic copies to determine if they are legible and acceptable. If they are not legible, the undersigned will advise Counsel in writing that legible hard copies must be obtained to replace the current Stipulated Exhibits.
- Counsel will supplement the Stipulated Exhibits to include copies of the "Itemized Materials and Labor List(s)," which reflect how the lump sums were determined on the Installation Contracts, which comprise Stipulated Exhibit 7. To the extent possible, as discussed, Counsel will provide an example(s) of cash register receipts to support Stipulated Exhibit 7.

Disposition, Page 2, and Footnote 1 is accurate. The Division "...is not challenging the fact that the Installation Contracts involved improvements to real property."

- The undersigned advised Counsel that a ruling on the pending Motion for Summary Disposition would not issue prior to hearing, but would be incorporated into the Findings, Conclusions and Recommendations.

- Protestant's Counsel advised that Issue II has been taken to hearing in one (1) other jurisdiction, that being the State of Indiana. Counsel indicated the hearing was held last week in Indiana. (Emphasis added.)

If not, does it intend to or does the Clerk need to make other arrangements? Please advise the Clerk if other arrangements should be made by this office.

STIPULATED FACTS AND ISSUE

On October 8, 2013, the parties filed Stipulated Facts and Issue, with Exhibits 1 through 12, as follows,<sup>24</sup> to-wit:

The parties hereby submit this joint Stipulated Facts and Issue, limited to “Issue No. 2” relating to the protest of [RETAILE STORE f/k/a OLD COMPANY NAME.<sup>25</sup> (“PROTESTANT” or “Taxpayer”) to the assessment of state and local sales tax (and any corresponding interest and penalties) by the Compliance Division of the Oklahoma Tax Commission (“Division”).

STIPULATED FACTS*Background

1. PROTESTANT is a corporation organized under OUT OF STATE law with a principal place of business in CITY,<sup>26</sup> STATE. PROTESTANT was at all times registered to conduct business in Oklahoma during the assessment period of November 1, 2004 through October 31, 2007 (the “Assessment Period”) at issue in this protest.

2. PROTESTANT is a retailer of home improvement products and services, including lumber, electrical and plumbing supplies, and other items for improving and maintaining residences and businesses. In addition, PROTESTANT also engages persons (the “Installers”) to install products selected by PROTESTANT’s customers such as roofing, vinyl siding, decks, hardwood, laminate flooring, vinyl flooring, ceramic tile, carpeting, doors and windows, storm doors and windows, showers, fencing, water heaters, water softeners, toilets, vanities, faucets and sinks, lights and ceiling fans, and kitchen countertops and cabinets at PROTESTANT’s customers’ locations.

3. PROTESTANT operates PROTESTANT locations in Oklahoma, each employing dozens of individuals.

Procedural Facts

4. Division, formerly the Audit Division, conducted a sales and use tax audit of PROTESTANT for the Assessment Period.

5. PROTESTANT executed Statute of Limitation Waiver Agreements on or about December 12, 2007 and July 29, 2008 extending the time to assess until December 31, 2008 and

December 31, 2009, respectively. True and correct copies of the Statute of Limitation Waiver Agreements are attached hereto as Exhibit 1.

6. Division, by letters dated May 7, 2009, proposed to assess PROTESTANT and, as officers and individuals, PRESIDENT, President, and VICE PRESIDENT, Vice President, sales tax, penalty and interest accrued through June 30, 2009 in the amount of $6,899,999.63. True and correct copies of the proposed assessment[s] are attached hereto as Exhibit 2.

7. PROTESTANT requested, and was granted, an extension of time to respond to Division's letter[s] of assessment until October 4, 2009. A true and correct copy of PROTESTANT's request for extension and Division's letter granting PROTESTANT's extension request is attached hereto as Exhibit 3.

8. PROTESTANT's timely protest to the assessments was dated October 1, 2009 and received by Division on October 2, 2009. A true and correct copy of PROTESTANT's protest is attached hereto as Exhibit 4.

9. Based on documentation submitted by PROTESTANT subsequent to filing its protest, Division revised its audit workpapers. With respect to "Issue No. 2," PROTESTANT and Division agree the amount of sales tax at issue, exclusive of penalty and interest, is $1,343,371.27. A true and correct copy of the revised audit workpapers related to "Issue No. 2" is attached hereto as Exhibit 5.

Selection of Items By the Customer

10. All of the installation contracts ("Installation Contracts") included in Issue No. 2 involve a customer's selection of a product which was either in inventory at an PROTESTANT store or was specially ordered by an PROTESTANT store for the customer.

11. True and correct copies of photographs taken at an PROTESTANT store location in Norman, Oklahoma are attached as hereto as Exhibit 6.

The Installation Contracts

12. PROTESTANT regularly enters into written Installation Contracts with customers in Oklahoma. True, correct and representative copies of Installation Contracts used during the Assessment Period are attached hereto as Exhibit 7.

13. A true, correct and representative copy of the terms and conditions which appeared on Installation Contracts during the Assessment Period is attached hereto as Exhibit 8.

14. A true, correct and representative copy of PROTESTANT's installed sales policy in effect from the beginning of the Assessment Period through April 3, 2005 is attached hereto as Exhibit 9.

15. A true, correct and representative copy of PROTESTANT's installed sales policy in effect from April 4, 2005 through July 1, 2007 is attached hereto as Exhibit 10.

16. A true, correct and representative copy of PROTESTANT's installed sales policy in effect from July 2, 2007 through the end of the Assessment Period is attached hereto as Exhibit 11.

The Installation Transaction

17. Some of PROTESTANT's Installation Contracts require a "Detail Fee," sometimes referred to as an "in-home measurement fee," which includes among other things measuring and evaluating the space, determining how much installation materials will likely be necessary, and estimating how much time will be required for the installation. If required, PROTESTANT charges and collects from the customer a Detail Fee immediately and assigns an Installer to visit the customer location. The Installer takes measurements at the customer's location and completes both a labor cost estimate and a material quantity estimate for the proposed project. Upon receiving the material quantity estimate, an PROTESTANT employee calculates the material component of the Installation Contract by multiplying the material quantity by the retail price of the products itemized in the contract, and adding the retail price of any additional materials that may be required for the installation. If the cost for basic installation is dependent on the amount of materials, such as _ ¢ per sq. ft., the PROTESTANT employee multiplies the states price for installation by the quantity of materials to determine the labor cost for the Installation Contract. The customer receives credit towards the total Installation Contract price for any Detail Fee previously paid by the customer.

18. Once the customer agrees to the price and is ready to enter into an Installation Contract, the customer typically executes the Installation Contract at the service station in the area of an PROTESTANT store where the product is located. At the station, the PROTESTANT employee enters the specifics into its computer system, which then calculates the total amount that PROTESTANT will charge and collect from the customer. This information is then entered/printed on the face of the Installation Contract.

19. At the checkout register, the cashier processes the sale and collects payment for the Installation Contract using a cash register linked to PROTESTANT's computer system, which retrieves the previously entered information relating to the Installation Contract.

20. After the customer pays the amount of the Installation Contract in full, PROTESTANT typically, if it has in stock items to be installed, moves the materials identified in the Installation Contract to the Installed Sales Bay for pick-up by the Installer. In some cases, the manufacturer may directly deliver the items pursuant to the Installer's direction. In either event, although not prohibited by the Installation Contract, the customer generally does not take the materials to be installed from the store.

21. Once the installation is complete, the customer executes a Certificate of Completion, a true, correct and representative copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit 12. Thereafter, PROTESTANT contacts the customer to determine if the customer is satisfied. Once the customer is satisfied with the installation, PROTESTANT pays the Installer for services rendered.

Tax Remittance

22. During the Assessment Period, PROTESTANT remitted Oklahoma state and local use tax to the OTC for the Installation Contracts included in Issue No. 2 on PROTESTANT's costs for the materials included in the Installation Contracts. PROTESTANT accrued and remitted local use tax based on the location of the store in which the customer executed the Installation Contract.

Division assessed PROTESTANT sales tax on the retail price of the materials identified in the Installation Contracts, sourcing its assessment to the city/county of installation. PROTESTANT was credited in the assessment for the amount of use tax remitted by PROTESTANT.

DECISION TO BE APPLIED TO SUBSEQUENT PERIODS

PROTESTANT and Division agree that the determination made with respect to the issues in this proceeding will be applied to subsequent periods provided the parties agree that the facts are substantially similar to the facts herein and there has been no change in applicable law.

SUPPLEMENTAL STIPULATIONS

1. Type 2 Installation Transactions: After the Administrative Law Judge conducted a pre-hearing conference with counsel on October 31, 2013, the parties conferred regarding the issue of "Type 2 Installations." Protestant PROTESTANT ("PROTESTANT"), upon reviewing its own records and the audit work papers prepared by the Division, has now confirmed that the Division's sales tax assessment in this case (the "Assessment") does not include assessment of additional sales tax on Type 2 Installation transactions. As a result, the parties hereby stipulate as follows: (i) The assessment of additional sales tax does not include Type 2 Installation transactions occurring in Oklahoma during the Assessment Period; (ii) the issue of whether Type 2 Installations<sup>27</sup> are subject to sale tax is not before the Administrative Law Judge in this case; and (iii) there is no need for a hearing or adjudication of any issues relating to Type 2 Installations.

<sup>27</sup> See MSD at 20. "For Type 2 Installations, either a manufacturer delivers the product to be installed directly to an Installer or the Installer already has the materials in his inventory. ...For Type 2 Installations, since PROTESTANT gains neither title to nor possession of the materials, the materials cost are not itemized in the Installation Contract." See also Exhibit 2 to MSD. "For some sales, PROTESTANT does not own the products and materials to be installed ("Type 2 Installations"), such as solid-surface granite countertops and certain brands of garage doors (e.g., Amarr and Wayne Dalton). For Type 2 Installations, either a manufacturer delivers the product to be installed directly to an Installer or the Installer already has the materials in his inventory. For Type 2 Installations, since PROTESTANT gains neither title to nor possession of the materials, the material costs are not itemized in the Installation Contract."

2. Customer Receipts: Attached as Exhibit A are true and correct copies of sales receipts relating to Type 1 installation transactions given by PROTESTANT to customers in Oklahoma. Although the receipts were generated after the Audit Period in this case, their appearance is generally representative of the types of receipts provided to Installed Sales Contract customers during the Audit Period. The receipts typically itemized the materials and labor. PROTESTANT typically does not retain hard copies of the customer receipts on installation transactions.

3. PROTESTANT Documentation: Attached as Exhibit B is a true and correct copy of a PROTESTANT's store's electronic receipt information retained for a limited period of time by the store. Although the document contained in Exhibit B was generated after the Audit Period in this case, the document is representative of documents generated during the Audit Period.

4. PROTESTANT Contract with Installer: Attached as Exhibit C is a true and correct copy of a contract between PROTESTANT and an installer used in Oklahoma during the Audit Period. Its terms are typical of Installer Contracts used by PROTESTANT during the Audit Period.

STATEMENT OF MATERIAL FACTS AS TO WHICH THERE IS NO CONTROVERSY

"[Protestant] primarily engages in two types of customer transactions: (i) standard retail sales of tangible personal property and some services (i.e. assembly and delivery services) to customers (no contract); and (ii) installation contract transactions undertaken pursuant to its installed sales and real property improvement line of business ("Installation Contracts")."

3. During the Assessment Period, Protestant regularly entered into a Contract For Installation Services with Installers.<sup>32</sup> The terms of a typical Contract For Installation Services, in pertinent parts,<sup>33</sup> states as follows, to-wit:

WHEREAS, [Protestant] does not install certain goods and/or materials (“Goods”) sold by it and customers purchasing such Goods at times desire to arrange for installation hereof by a qualified Installer; and

WHEREAS, [Protestant] is willing to arrange for certain of said installations as desired by customers through Installer; and

WHEREAS, Installer is willing and desires to do such installation work but only as an independent Installer and not as an employee of [Protestant], and pursuant to the terms and conditions set out herein.

During the term of this Contract, Installer may accept one or more (“Order(s)”) tendered by [Protestant], on behalf of customers, to install the following Goods:

Windows, Doors, Cabinets [sic]

(describe specific types of Goods, e.g., kitchen cabinets, flooring, ceiling fans, etc.) in customers’ residential premises (the “Premises”), provided that each accepted Order can be performed satisfactorily by Installer. Acceptance of an Order shall occur when Installer executes the Installed Sales Contract between [Protestant] and its customer (the “Customer Contract”) for the particular job covered by that Order. Installer will install the Goods and perform each Order in a neat and professional manner in accordance with (i) the Installation instructions as contained in the current manufacturer’s specifications, (ii) Instructions as contained in the Customer Contracts, (iii) [Protestant’s] Installer Performance Standards, a copy of which have been provided to Installer and which are incorporated by reference as if fully set out herein, (iv) the established trade practices in the area, and (v) all applicable laws, rules, regulations, ordinances, building codes, or other lawful requirement. Installer shall promptly notify [Protestant] and the applicable customer if, as a result of a change in existing applicable lawful requirements or enactment of a new applicable lawful requirement, any additional Goods or labor are

Installer stipulates and agrees that it has no ownership or security interest in any Goods furnished by [Protestant] for any Order accepted pursuant to this Contract, and that any such interest that might arise as a matter of law is hereby fully, unconditionally, and forever released and waived, that [Protestant] is the owner of such Goods unless and until they are purchased by [Protestant's] installed customers as a bailee for hire.<sup>34</sup> In case of shortage of <sup>34</sup> “bailee.” (16c) A person who receives personal property from another, and has possession of but not title to the property. • A bailee is responsible for keeping the property safe until it is returned to the owner. See bailment. Cases: [Bailment ¶1.] Black’s Law Dictionary (9th ed. 2009), available at <http://westlaw.com>.

“bailment.” (16c) 1. A delivery of personal property by one person (the bailor) to another (the bailee) who holds the property for a certain purpose, usu. under an express or implied-in-fact contract. • Unlike a sale or gift of personal property, a bailment involves a change in possession but not in title. Cf. pawn. Cases: [Bailment ¶1.] “The customary definition of a bailment considers the transaction as arising out of contract. Thus Justice Story defines a bailment as ‘a delivery of a thing in trust for some special object or purpose, and upon a contract express or implied, to conform to the object or purpose of the trust’ [Joseph Story, Bailments 5 (9th ed. 1878)]. There has, however, been a vigorous dissent to this insistence on the contractual element in bailments. Professor Williston ... defines bailments broadly ‘as the rightful possession of goods by one who is not the owner’ [4 Samuel Williston, Law of Contracts 2888 (rev. ed. 1936)].... It is obvious that the restricted definition of a bailment as a delivery of goods on a contract cannot stand the test of the actual cases. The broader definition of Professor Williston is preferable.” Ray Andrews Brown, The Law of Personal Property § 73, at 252, 254 (2d ed. 1955). “Although a bailment is ordinarily created by the agreement of the parties, resulting in a consensual delivery and acceptance of the property, such a relationship may also result from the actions and conduct of the parties in dealing with the property in question. A bailment relationship can be implied by law whenever the personal property of one person is acquired by another and held under circumstances in which principles of justice require the recipient to keep the property safely and return it to the owner.” 8A Am. Jur. 2d Bailment § 1 (1997). actual bailment. (1821) A bailment that arises from an actual or constructive delivery of property to the bailee. bailment for hire. A bailment for which the bailee is compensated, as when one leaves a car with a parking attendant. — Also termed lucrative bailment. Cf. bailment for mutual benefit. bailment for mutual benefit. (1868) A bailment for which the bailee is compensated and from which the bailor receives some additional benefit, as when one leaves a car with a parking attendant who will also wash the car while it is parked. Cf. bailment for hire. bailment for sale. A bailment in which the bailee agrees to sell the goods on behalf of the bailor; a consignment. Cases: [Bailment ¶2; Sales ¶457.] bailment for sole benefit of bailor. See gratuitous bailment. constructive bailment. (1843) A bailment that arises when the law imposes an obligation on a possessor of personal property to return the property to its rightful owner, as with an involuntary bailment. Cf. involuntary bailment. gratuitous bailment. (1811) A bailment for which the bailee receives no compensation, as when one borrows a friend’s car. • A gratuitous bailee is liable for loss of the property only if the loss is caused by the bailee’s gross negligence. — Also termed naked bailment; depositum; naked deposit; gratuitous deposit; deposit; bailment for sole benefit of bailor. involuntary bailment. (1840) A bailment that arises when a person accidentally, but without any negligence, leaves personal property in another’s possession. • An involuntary bailee who refuses to return the property to the owner may be liable for conversion. — Also termed involuntary deposit. [Protestant's] Goods for any job, Installer will arrange with the [Protestant's] store where the Order is originated unless requested by the customer to leave such Goods. Installer will not install Goods containing defects and will notify [Protestant] promptly of any such defective Goods. Additionally, Installer will not be authorized to use [Protestant's] dumpsters to dispose of any waste Goods and shall dispose of such Goods in compliance with all applicable governmental law, rules, and regulations.

[Protestant] will tender, for acceptance by the Installer, the Customer Contract which shall contain the specifications for the job to be performed and the installation charge based on the negotiated Schedule of Installer's Charges attached hereto as Appendix A (the "Installer's Schedule").<sup>35</sup> The Installer's invoice, (b) executed "Waivers of Lien", (c) executed Installer's Certification of Completion, (d) executed customer's Certificate of Completion, and (e) verification by [Protestant] that the Order has been properly completed in accordance with the Customer Contract and the provisions of this Contract. Installer will not be paid by [Protestant] for any work not specified on the Customer Contract unless agreed to in writing by [Protestant] in change order or new Customer Contract.

In the event customer requests changes in or additions to the specified work involving additional Goods or labor, or in the event a change is necessitated as a result of a change in the condition of the Premises from that stated in the Customer Contract, Installer will notify [Protestant] immediately. In the event no change order or new customer contract is executed by [Protestant's], Installer may not perform such work. If Installer performs such work it will be deemed a material breach of this Contract and Installer shall assume full responsibility and liability for all such work and must advise customer that said changes and/or additions, will not be subject to [Protestant's] guarantees. Further, all leads and prospects for additional business resulting from or in any way connected to any work or Orders tendered hereunder are the property of [Protestant].

In the event the full contract price under a Customer Contract is not paid upon execution, Installer, upon request of [Protestant] agrees to maintain a fidelity bond naming [Protestant] as an obligee with a company acceptable to [Protestant] and in an amount approved by [Protestant]. 4. During the Assessment Period, the Protestant's Installed Sales Policy was in pertinent parts,<sup>36</sup> as follows, to-wit:

GENERAL DESCRIPTION. By this installed sales contract (the "Contract"), Customer agrees to purchase and [Protestant] agrees to sell the goods and/or materials (the "Goods") and the services to install same (the "Installation Services") in or on the above-identified Premises, for the stated total cash price (the "Price") and according to the specifications and other provisions of the Contract documents, including (a) this Contract form, (b) the Addendum, if and to the extent applicable, (c) and any attached sketches, materials lists, floor plans, and/or specification sheets.

INSTALLATION SERVICES. Customer authorizes [Protestant] (a) to arrange for the Installation Services to be performed by an experienced Installer (licensed when legally required), (b) to issue a work order to the Installer to perform the Installation Services, (c) to inspect the Installer's work, and (d) to pay the Installer after completion of the work and after receipt of a certificate, signed and dated by Customer, that the work has been satisfactorily completed (the "Certificate of Completion"). Customer understands that [Protestant] will rely upon the Certificate of Completion in paying the Installer for the Installation Services.

GOODS. [Protestant] will arrange for delivery of the Goods to the Premises. Any surplus materials upon completion of the Installation Services shall remain the property of [Protestant] and shall be returned to [Protestant] by the Installer.

<sup>36</sup> See Stipulations 14 through 16. See also Exhibits 8, 9 through 11.

PRICE. The Price owed by Customer to [Protestant] covers the Goods, Installation Services, and applicable taxes. The Price assumes sound existing substructures, superstructure and points of attachments. The price shall be increased by the cost and reasonable profit to [Protestant] of having to provide additional Goods and/or Installation Services as a result of defective substructures, superstructures, or points of attachments.

PAYMENT. Payment of the Price by Customer to [Protestant] is due in full upon execution of the Contract.

MANUFACTURER WARRANTY FOR GOODS/[PROTESTANT'S] WARRANTY FOR INSTALLATION SERVICES. Customer is entitled to any warranty provided by a manufacturer of the Goods sold under this Contract. The Installer will provide Customer with any manufacturer consumer warranty information accompanying the Goods, and Customer may also obtain such information by contacting [Protestant]. [Protestant] does not warrant the Goods. [Protestant] does warrant that the Installation Services will be performed by the Installer in a good and “workmanlike manner.” ... (Emphasis added.)

From April 4, 2005 to July 1, 2007, and July 2, 2007 through October 31, 2007, there were “revisions” and/or “additions” to various provisions, but it appears that the three (3) “Installed Sales Policies” in effect during the Assessment Period are substantially the same as set out above. The “revisions” and/or “additions” appear to consist mostly of procedural changes addressing how the Protestant handles and/or processes Installed Sales.<sup>37</sup>

5. During the Assessment Period, Protestant regularly entered into written “Installation Contracts” with customers in Oklahoma.<sup>38</sup>

6. Once the customer agrees to the price and is ready to enter into an “Installation Contract,” the customer typically executes the “Installation Contract” at the service station in the area of a Protestant's store where the product is located. At the station, the Protestant's employee enters the specifics into its computer system, which then calculates the total amount that Protestant will charge and collect from the customer. This information is then entered/printed on the face of the "Installation Contract."<sup>39</sup>

7. At the checkout register, the cashier processes the sale and collects payment for the Installation Contract using a cash register linked to Protestant's computer system, which retrieves the previously entered information relating to the Installation Contract.<sup>40</sup>

8. After the customer pays the amount of the Installation Contract in full, Protestant typically, if it has in stock items to be installed, moves the materials identified in the Installation Contract to the Installed Sales Bay for pick-up by the Installer.<sup>41</sup>

9. In some cases, the manufacturer may directly deliver the items pursuant to the Installer's direction. In either event, although not prohibited by the Installation Contract, the customer generally does not take the materials to be installed from the store.<sup>42</sup>

10. Once the installation is complete, the customer executes a Certificate of Completion, which is part of the Itemized Installed Sales Contract.<sup>43</sup> The Certificate of Completion contains the following information, to-wit:

Customer Name                      Printed Store Number                      P.O. #

I, the buyer, hereby certify that the Contractors, or their assigned sub-contractors, furnished all goods and/or services, that installation, repairs and alteration or improvements have been completed as set-forth in our sales contract with [Protestant] defined in the contract.

I, the undersigned Contractor, having been employed by the customer whose name appears on the reverse side, do hereby certify that the work referred to on the reverse side has been completed to the customer’s satisfaction. In consideration of the receipt of one dollar and other good consideration and valuable consideration, I hereby acknowledge receipt of PAYMENT IN FULL, and hereby waive and relinquish all liens and all rights and claims of liens which I, the undersigned, now have or may hereafter have for labor or material furnished. ### C. RULES AND STATUTORY INTERPRETATION

20. The rules and regulations of an administrative agency which implement the provisions of a statute are valid unless they are beyond the scope of the statute, are in conflict with the statute, or are unreasonable.<sup>82</sup> Generally, it is presumed that administrative rules and regulations are fair and reasonable and that the complaining party has the burden of proving the contrary by competent and convincing evidence.<sup>83</sup>

21. The goal of any inquiry into the meaning of a legislative act is to ascertain and give effect to the intent of the legislature. The law-making body is presumed to have expressed its intent in a statute’s language and to have intended what the text expresses. Hence, where a statute is plain and unambiguous, it will not be subject to judicial construction, but will be given the effect its language dictates. Only where the intent cannot be ascertained from a statute's text, as occurs when ambiguity or conflict (with other statutes) is shown to exist, may rules of statutory construction be employed.<sup>84</sup>

22. The legislature will not be presumed to have intended a vain or absurd result.<sup>85</sup>

23. Tax statutes are penal in nature. Where there is reasonable doubt about the taxing act's meaning, all ambiguity must be resolved in favor of the taxpayer. Legislative intention ascertained from a general consideration of the entire act must be given effect. Nonetheless, courts cannot enlarge the taxing act's ambit to make its provision's applicable to cases not clearly within the Legislature's contemplation or to fill lacunae in the revenue law in a manner that would distort the enactment's plain language.<sup>86</sup>

24. Words used in any statute are to be understood in their ordinary sense, except when a contrary intention plainly appears, and except also that the words hereinafter explained are to be understood as thus explained.<sup>87</sup>

25. Whenever the meaning of a word or phrase is defined in any statute, such definition is applicable to the same word or phrase wherever it occurs, except where a contrary intention plainly appears.<sup>88</sup>

26. In the absence of a contrary definition, regulatory words are to have the same meaning as that attributed to them in ordinary and usual parlance.<sup>89</sup>

D. MOTION FOR SUMMARY DISPOSITION

27. The Legislature vested the Oklahoma Tax Commission with jurisdiction over the parties and subject matter of this proceeding.<sup>90</sup>

(1) The motion for summary disposition shall be accompanied by a concise written statement of the material facts as to which the movant contends no genuine issue exists and a statement of argument and authority demonstrating that summary disposition of any or all issues should be granted. The moving party shall verify the facts to which such party contends no genuine controversy exists with affidavits and evidentiary material attached to the statement of material facts.

(2) If the protest has been set for hearing, the motion shall be served at least twenty (20) days before the hearing date unless an applicable scheduling order issued by the Administrative Law Judge establishes an earlier deadline. The motion shall be served on all parties and filed with the Office of the Administrative Law Judge.

(3) Any party opposing summary disposition of issues shall file with the Administrative Law Judge within fifteen (15) days after service of the motion a concise written statement of the material facts as to which a genuine issue exists and the reasons for denying the motion. The adverse party shall attach to the statement evidentiary material justifying the opposition to the motion, but may incorporate by reference material attached to the papers of the moving party. All material facts set forth in the statement of the movant which are supported by acceptable evidentiary material shall be deemed admitted for the purpose of summary disposition unless specifically controverted by the statement of the adverse party which is supported by acceptable evidentiary material.

(4) The affidavits that are filed by either party shall be made on personal knowledge, shall show that the affiant is competent to testify as to the matters stated therein, and shall set forth matters that would be admissible in evidence at a hearing. A party challenging the admissibility of any evidentiary material submitted by another party may raise the issue expressly by written objection or motion to strike such material.

(5) If the taxpayer has requested a hearing, the Administrative Law Judge will issue a notice to the parties scheduling the motion for a hearing limited to Oral Argument. If the taxpayer has not requested a hearing, the Administrative Law Judge will rule on the motion based on the submission of the parties, including the motion, opposition to the motion, and attachments thereto.

(6) If the Administrative Law Judge finds that there is no substantial controversy as to the material facts and that one of the parties is entitled to a decision in its favor as a matter of law, the Judge will grant summary disposition by issuing Findings of Fact, Conclusions of Law, and Recommendations. Such Findings of Fact, Conclusions of Law and Recommendations are subject to review by the Commission pursuant to OAC 710:1-5-10, 710:1-5-40 and 710:1-5-41. If a motion for summary disposition is denied, the Administrative Law Judge will issue an order denying such motion.

(7) If the Administrative Law Judge finds that there is no substantial controversy as to certain facts or issues, the Judge may grant partial summary disposition by issuing an order which specifies the facts or issues which are not in controversy and directing that the action proceed for a determination of the remaining facts or issues. If a hearing of factual issues is required, evidentiary rulings in the context of the summary procedure shall be treated as rulings in limine. Any ruling on partial summary disposition shall be incorporated into the Findings of Fact, Conclusions of Law, and Recommendations issued at the conclusion of the proceedings before the Administrative Law Judge.

E. STANDARD OF REVIEW

29. An order that grants summary relief, in whole or part, disposes solely of law questions.<sup>92</sup>

30. Although a trial court in making a decision on whether summary judgment is appropriate considers factual matters, the ultimate decision turns on purely legal determinations, i.e. whether one party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law because there are no material disputed factual questions.<sup>93</sup>

31. Summary judgment should be granted only if it is perfectly clear that there is no material fact at issue. For summary judgment to be appropriate, the trial court must not only find there is no substantial controversy as to any material fact, but also that reasonable people could not reach differing conclusions from the undisputed facts.<sup>94</sup>

32. A fact is material for purposes of summary judgment if proof of the fact would establish or refute an essential element of a cause of action or a defense.<sup>95</sup>

PROTESTANT'S MOTION FOR SUMMARY DISPOSITION

On October 7, 2013, the Protestant filed its MSD, stating in pertinent part,<sup>96</sup> as follows, to-wit:

Issue No. 2 involves the following discrete tax question:
What sales and use tax responsibility does [Protestant] have under Oklahoma law with respect to customer transactions that involved fixed-priced installations of tangible personal property that, once installed, became affixed to and part of the customer's real estate.

The Protestant's position, in pertinent part,<sup>97</sup> is as follows, to-wit:

[Protestant], as contractor on such real property improvement projects, was the final consumer of the construction materials used in the installations. Simply stated, there were no sales of tangible personal property to customers. Rather, the customer ultimately received title to a completed improvement to real property. Consequently, [Protestant] was responsible for self-assessing use tax on the cost of the materials it consumed in performing the real property improvement services.

---

Whether and to what extent Protestant is acting as a "Contractor" under Oklahoma law when it contracts to affix tangible personal property owned by its customers?

ATTORNEY 2: ... What we have here is Issue No. 2, which is a discreet and simple straight forward question, which is what are the sales in – sales and use tax obligations of [Protestant's] when performing a home improvement contract.

According to the law, as [Protestant] sees it, [Protestant] is, as the contractor, the final user or consumer of the tangible personal property that is incorporated into the customer's home. The roof shingles... and it is liable for self-assessing use tax on the materials that are consumed in the course of performing the contract.

DIVISION'S RESPONSE

The Division responds, in pertinent part,<sup>98</sup> as follows, to-wit:

Protestant's argument that Protestant is a contractor in the installed sales contracts, using property belonging to, or purchased by, Protestant, is not supported by the stipulated facts and exhibits. Specifically, the following facts and exhibits demonstrate that the property included in the installed sales contract belongs to, or was purchased by the customer, not Protestant:

1. The customer selects the products or products; [sic]
2. Protestant, through its signage and advertising, invites its customer to "Have Your [insert product] Installed;
3. The terms and conditions of each installed sales contract include, "By this installed sales contract (the "Contract"). Customer agrees to purchase and [Protestant] agrees to sell the goods and/or materials (the "Goods") and the services to install same (the "Installation Services")..." Additionally, certain of Protestant's installations services, such as indicated in the "Entire House Carpet Installation" require purchase of the product from Protestant;
4. The installed sales contract separately states materials and labor. The material component is the retail price of the products to be installed. If more than one of a certain product is being installed, such as square feet of carpet or flooring, the material component is the retail price of the product multiplied by the quantity of the product.
5. The customer must pay the full amount of the material and labor at the time the contract is executed. The customer's receipt, which he receives after his contract is processed at a checkout counter, reflects separate line items for (1) each item included in materials, including quantity and retail price for each item and (2) the labor and its price;

6. Additional costs for materials not included in the contract are at the expense of the customer;
7. Employees of Protestant may purchase special order and stock merchandise at employee price but do not receive employee pricing on installed sales labor; and
8. As evidenced by the installed ceiling fan contract included in Exhibit 7, Protestant's customer is able to return an item not needed for installation to Protestant for a refund. (Emphasis original.)

PROTESTANT'S REPLY

The Protestant replies,<sup>99</sup> as follows, to-wit:

The Division, however, has presented no evidence to demonstrate that any of these recited facts are unique to [Protestant]. For example, the Division does not suggest that other Oklahoma contractors do not also (i) allow their customers to select the types of materials they want installed on their property; (ii) promote the availability of their installation services with signage; or (iii) calculate their fixed contract prices based on their best estimates of the material and labor costs they anticipate incurring in performing the home improvement. Likewise, the Division has failed to show that other contractors do not also warrant only their installation services, since the installed materials carry manufacturers' warranties. (Emphasis original.)

In support of its position, the Protestant states,<sup>100</sup> as follow, to-wit:

What [Protestant] doesn't do is it doesn't sell any tangible personal property to the customers. They don't take home with them loose roof shingles or flooring installed floor, a remodeled bathroom, And that is what [Protestant] is selling. They didn't take home anything when they go through the course of entering into these contracts.

Now, there's no dispute that every installation contract that is the subject of this assessment involved a real property improvement. That was stipulated. You made a finding to that effect in your November 1st] letter ruling.<sup>101</sup>

So the only issue that is before you on this matter is whether [Protestant], when it is performing a home improvement contract, is a contractor, as defined under Oklahoma law. ...

In support of its position, the Division states,<sup>102</sup> as follows, to-wit:

Protestant is not a contractor under the definition of "contractor" in the Sales Tax Code as Protestant is not installing property belonging to, or owned by Protestant. Under the application of the rules cited above,<sup>103</sup> Protestant is a vendor of the products which <sup>101</sup> Id. The Protestant's characterization of the November 1, 2013 letter is incorrect. The ALJ issued a letter that confirmed the October 31, 2013 Teleconference with Counsel on the topics, as more fully set therein. The Office of Administrative Law Judges does not issue "Letter Rulings." See OKLA. ADMIN. CODE § 710:1-3-73(e) (June 25, 2009).

<sup>102</sup> See Response at 12. See also MSD at 1-2. The Protestant states, "The Division's overarching position is that a contractor that also happens to engage in retail sales must collect and remit sales taxes when selling its contracting services. It argues that since [Protestant] was a 'recognized retailer of tangible personal property' during the Assessment Period (See Division's Response to [Protestant's] First Set of Interrogatories No. 11), it could not also have acted as a contractor when it entered into lump-sum written contracts with customers to make real property improvements (the 'Installation Contracts'). Specifically, the Division seeks to bifurcate each real property improvement project performed by [Protestant] during the Assessment Period into two separate, independent transactions – (1) a retail sale of the construction materials to customers, and (2) a subsequent installation of those sold items. Thus, according to the Division, [Protestant] should have collected and remitted sales tax on the retail value of the tangible personal property used in each project."

DISCUSSION

As pointed out by the Division,<sup>104</sup> “There is no Oklahoma decision clearly applicable to this issue,” making this a case of first impression, which could potentially affect the way the Protestant conducts business in the State of Oklahoma, and on a national basis.<sup>105</sup> The resolution of Issue No. Two could potentially affect every Vendor/Retailer<sup>106</sup> in the State of Oklahoma, who purchases their inventory exempt, as sales for resale,<sup>107</sup> makes retail sales<sup>108</sup> of TPP,<sup>109</sup> and does “Installed Sales,” which are improvements to real property, similar to the Protestant.<sup>110</sup>

<sup>105</sup> Protestant’s Counsel advised that Issue No. Two has been taken to hearing in one (1) other jurisdiction, that being the State of Indiana. Counsel indicated the hearing was held at the end of October 2013. See Note 46, supra.

<sup>110</sup> MSD at 17. See also Protestant’s Proposed Findings at 16, which states, as follows, to-wit:

Jurisdictions that have addressed the existence of taxpayers functioning both as a retailer and, in a separate capacity, as a contractor, treat such taxpayers no differently than other contractors when performing contracting activities. (See MICH. ADMIN. CODE r.205.71(5) (“Where a contractor is not engaged exclusively in the contracting business but makes sales of tangible property at retail to other contractors and consumers, he shall... [pay] [u]se tax...on merchandise acquired for resale and later consumed in contract operations.”); ILL. AMIN. CODE tit., 86 § 130.2101(d)(4) (“If the construction contractor is a combination contractor/retailer and did not pay tax when purchasing the floor coverings and materials...the construction contractor incurs Retailer’s Occupation Tax based on his cost price.”)

MICH. ADMIN. CODE r.205.71(7) states, “A contractor purchasing tangible personal property for affixation to realty where delivery is taken in Michigan is subject to sales or use tax on the purchase price whether the improvement or construction of realty takes place within or without Michigan, except as noted in subrule 2.”

MICH. ADMIN. CODE r. 205.71(2) states in pertinent part, as follows, to-wit:

Contractors are consumers of the materials used by them. All sales to or purchases by contractors of tangible personal property are taxable, except when affixed and made a structural part of real estate for a qualified exempt non-profit

The Division has agreed that the all of the Installed Sales Contracts covered by the Assessment Period involved improvements to real property.<sup>111</sup> As stated by ATTORNEY 2 during Oral Argument, “So the only issue that is before you on this matter is whether [Protestant], when it is performing a home improvement contract, is a contractor, as defined under Oklahoma law.”<sup>112</sup>

The Sales Tax Code<sup>113</sup> does not define “Contractor-Retailer” or “Retailer-Contractor.”<sup>114</sup> The Sales Tax Code does defines “Contractor” as “...any person<sup>115</sup> who performs any improvement upon real property and who, as a necessary<sup>116</sup> and incidental<sup>117</sup> part of performing hospital or a nonprofit housing entity qualified as exempt under the sales and use tax acts. All materials consumed in the performance of such contracts and not affixed and made a structural part of real property are taxable. Retailers making exempt sales shall obtain the following exemption certificate: ...

The Protestant also cites 86 ILAC § 130.2101(d)(4) (Sellers of Floor Coverings), which states, as follows, to-wit:

Construction contract situations. Construction contractors who permanently affix floor coverings to real estate under the terms of construction contracts incur tax liability based on their cost price of the floor covering and materials that they affix to real estate. In a construction contract situation, the construction contractor does not incur Retailers' Occupation Tax liability on his gross receipts from sale. Rather, the construction contractor incurs tax based on his cost price of the floor covering and materials transferred to his customer under the terms of the construction contract. (Emphasis added.)

A retail merchant engaged in business in Indiana shall include:

(1) Any retail merchant engaged in selling at retail for use, storage, or consumption in Indiana and maintain, occupying, or using, permanently or temporarily, directly or indirectly, or through a subsidiary, or agent, and office, place of distribution, sales or sample room or place, warehouse or storage place or other place of business in Indiana.

The Division states, “Protestant is not a contractor in its installed sales contracts during the Assessment Period under the definition of “contractor” in the Sales Tax Code as Protestant was not installing property belonging to, or owned by Protestant. Under the application of the rules cited above, Protestant was the vendor of the products which Protestant installed under an installed sales contract which has been referred to by Protestant as a ‘lump sum contract.’”<sup>120</sup>

As pointed out by Protestant, in pertinent part, “The Division, however, has presented no evidence to demonstrate that any of the recited facts are unique to [Protestant].”<sup>121</sup> There is no dispute that the Protestant purchases its inventory exempt from sales tax, as sales for resale.<sup>122</sup> There is also no dispute that when the Protestant makes across the counter or “retail sales,” title to the “Tangible Personal Property” transfers to its customer.

By the terms of an Installed Sales Contract, title and possession of the TPP does not transfer from the Protestant to its customer upon execution.<sup>123</sup> Once the Protestant and the customer execute the Installed Sales Contract, the customer pays the “Lump Sum Contract”<sup>124</sup> in full. Typically, the Protestant withdraws the TPP from its inventory.<sup>125</sup> If the TPP is simply withdrawn from the Protestant’s inventory, the Protestant moves the TPP to the Installed Sales Bay for pick-up by the Installer.<sup>126</sup> The Installer then takes the TPP to the location of the installation (an improvement to real property) and once the installation is complete, the customer executes a “Certificate of Completion.”<sup>127</sup>

As defined in the Sales Tax Code, “Consumer” or “user” means a person to whom a taxable sale of tangible personal property is made or to whom a taxable service is furnished. “Consumer” or “user” includes all contractors to whom a taxable sale of materials, supplies, equipment, or other tangible personal property is made or to whom a taxable service is furnished to be used or consumed in the performance of any contract.<sup>128</sup>

The Protestant meets the definition of “Contractor,” as defined in the Sales Tax Code. The Protestant is engaged in a contractual arrangement for the improvement of real property.<sup>129</sup>

POINT OF SALE

During the Assessment Period, Protestant remitted Oklahoma state and local use tax to the Tax Commission for the Installation Contracts, which are the subject of Issue No. Two, on the Protestant’s cost of TPP/materials included in and consumed in the performance of the Installation Contracts. Protestant accrued and remitted local use tax based on the location of the store in which the customer executed the Installation Contract and/or from which the Protestant withdrew the TPP/Materials from its inventory.<sup>130</sup> The Division assessed sales tax, sourcing<sup>131</sup> the sale to the location of the material’s installation. The Division credited the Protestant for the use tax remitted.

The Protestant states, “...as a contractor on real property improvement projects, it was the final consumer of the construction materials used in the installations. Its position is that there were no sales of TPP to customers in these transactions. Rather, the customers ultimately received title to completed improvements to their real property. Consequently, [Protestant] was responsible under Oklahoma law for self-assessing use tax on the cost of the TPP it consumed in performing the real property improvement services on behalf of the customer.”<sup>132</sup>

<sup>127</sup> Id. “When [Protestant] performs its real property improvement services under an Installation Contract, title to the installed tangible personal property does not transfer from [Protestant] to its customer until after the materials are affixed to and become a part of the customer’s real property.”

“Sourced” means the location for which local sales and use taxes are to be applied.

The Division contends "...that the sales tax on Protestants [sic] sales of [TPP] should be sourced to the location of the installation and not to the location of Protestant's store where the installation sales contract was entered."<sup>133</sup>

The Streamlined Sales and Use Tax Administration Act (the "Act"),<sup>134</sup> provides as follows, to-wit:

A. The retail sale, excluding lease or rental, of a product shall be sourced, as follows, to-wit:

1. When the product is received by the purchaser at a business location of the seller, the sale is sourced to that business location.
2. When the product is not received by the purchaser at a business location of the seller, the sale is sourced to the location where receipt by the purchaser, or the purchaser's donee, designated as such by the purchaser, occurs, including the location indicated by instructions for delivery to the purchaser or donee, known to the seller. ... (Emphasis added.)

The language of the Streamlined Act is clear and unambiguous;<sup>135</sup> the Act imposes tax sourced to the customer's address, where the TPP is delivered, if there has been a "sale."<sup>136</sup>

However, by statute, TPP "...does not include...tangible personal property that loses its identity when it becomes an integral and inseparable part of the realty, or tangible personal property which is removable only with substantial damage to the premises."<sup>137</sup>

The Tax Commission has previously held that "When the [protestant] withdraws the materials from its inventory to fulfill the 'contracted for services,' the materials lose the protection of the resale exemption and are reportable by the [protestant] as 'gross receipts.' The 'point of sale' for purposes of 'withdrawals from inventory' in this matter is the [protestant's] 'ANY TOWN Warehouse.'"<sup>138</sup>

As a “Contractor,” the Protestant is the final “Consumer” or “User”<sup>139</sup> of the “Materials”<sup>140</sup> incorporated into the customer’s real property, pursuant to the terms of the Installed Sales Contract. If any business purchases TPP for resale and that business withdraws TPP from its inventory, that business has made a taxable sale.<sup>141</sup> The sourcing of the sale is the location of the store where the sale occurred, at the Protestant’s cost, not the retail price.

CONCLUSION

Based upon the record, reasonable minds would reach the same conclusion, that there is no substantial controversy as to the material facts; the Protestant is entitled to a decision in its favor, as a matter of law.

JURISDICTION TO DECIDE CONSTITUTIONAL ISSUE

The Supreme Court of Oklahoma held in Dow Jones,<sup>142</sup> “We agree with the Commission that, as an administrative agency, it is powerless to strike down a statute for constitutional repugnancy. Within the framework of Oklahoma’s tripartite distribution of government powers, the authority to invalidate an unconstitutional enactment resides solely in the judicial department. Art. 7, § 1, Okl. Const.<sup>143</sup> confers on administrative agencies only that quantum of ‘judicial

The judicial power of this State shall be vested in the Senate, sitting as a Court of Impeachment, a Supreme Court, the Court of Criminal Appeals, the Court on the Judiciary, the State Industrial Court, the Court of Bank Review, the Court of Tax Review, and such intermediate appellate courts as may be provided by statute, District Courts, and such Boards, Agencies and Commissions created by the Constitution or established by statute as exercise adjudicative authority or render decisions in individual proceedings. Provided that the Court of Criminal Appeals, the State Industrial Court, the Court of Bank Review and the Court of Tax Review and such Boards, Agencies and Commissions as have been established by statute shall continue in effect, subject to the power of the Legislature to change or abolish said Courts, Boards, Agencies, or Commissions. Municipal Courts in cities or incorporated towns shall continue in effect and shall be subject to creation, abolition or alteration by the Legislature by general laws, but shall be limited in jurisdiction to criminal and traffic proceedings arising out of infractions of the provisions of ordinances of cities and towns or of duly adopted regulations authorized by such power’ which is necessary to support their exercise of adjudicative authority in individual proceedings brought before them. The power assigned to boards and commissions is not coextensive with that which is vested in the courts. Every statute is hence constitutionally valid until a court of competent jurisdiction declares otherwise.”

The Protestant asserts that the Division’s position denies the Protestant equal protection of the law. The Protestant states, “The Division now seeks, without statutory authority, to divide Oklahoma contractors into two arbitrary categories – those that also make retail sales as opposed to those that do not – and it seeks to impose different tax burdens on the two groups for engaging in the exact same activity. There is nothing in the Oklahoma Tax Code that authorizes such a discriminatory scheme. ...Indeed, there is no statutory caveat or exception to OKLA. STAT. ANN. tit. 68, § 1352(7) that suggests that contractors who also sell merchandise at retail must be classed differently and bear different tax burdens than other contractors making the same real property improvements. Rather, the Division has unilaterally chosen to implement its own aberrational enforcement policy against the [Protestant].”<sup>144</sup>

The Division responds, “Protestant asserts that the Division’s assessment violates equal protection because it treats contractors differently. Here, Division assessed Protestant, not as a contractor who installed property owned by Protestant, but as a vendor of tangible personal property who installed property which Protestant sold to its customers under installed sales contracts. Protestant has not cited even one example of a taxpayer who is similarly situated to Protestant, but was taxed differently.”<sup>145</sup>

Equal protection clause does not forbid classification; it simply keeps governmental decision matters from treating differently persons who are in all relevant respects alike.<sup>146</sup> A State may divide different kinds of property into classes and assign to each class a different tax burden so long as those divisions and burdens are reasonable.<sup>147</sup> States have large leeway in making classifications and drawing lines which in their judgment produce reasonable systems of taxation.<sup>148</sup>

The Sales Tax Code does not contain the definition of a “Contractor/Retailer” and/or “Retailer/Contractor.” The Division is making a distinction, which is not supportable based upon the conclusions reached herein.

CONCLUSION

The Division's distinction between Protestant and "Contractor," as defined by the Sales Tax Code would be a violation of the equal protection clause if upheld, but based upon the Conclusions reached herein, it is a moot point.

WAIVER OF PENALTY AND INTEREST

At the discretion of the Commission, the interest or penalty, or both, may be waived provided the taxpayer can demonstrate that the failure to pay the tax when due is satisfactorily explained, or that the failure resulted from a mistake by the taxpayer of either law or fact, or that the taxpayer is unable to pay the interest or penalty due to insolvency. Requests for waiver or remission must be made in writing and must include all pertinent facts to support the request.<sup>149</sup>

The Petition for Redetermination ("Protest") "...requests a complete waiver of all penalties and interest."<sup>150</sup>

CONCLUSION

The ALJ does not have the authority to waive penalty and interest. The authority to waive penalty and interest rests exclusively with the Commissioners or their designee,<sup>151</sup> but based upon the Conclusions reached herein, the request is moot.

RECOMMENDATIONS

It is the recommendation of the undersigned Administrative Law Judge, based upon the facts and circumstances of this case that the Protestant's MSD be granted, as more fully set forth herein.
