July Revenue Shows Moderated Economic Growth
Treasurer says energy industry continues to lead revenues

OKLAHOMA CITY – July revenues show moderate economic growth as collections continue to beat the prior year, although collections have pulled back from the double-digit numbers seen last month, Treasurer Ken Miller said today as he released the state’s monthly gross revenue report.

“July collections were up by 6.8 percent from July of last year and 14.4 percent above July 2009,” Miller said. “With year-over-year growth last month exceptionally strong at 15.5 percent, it is not surprising to see growth moderate some this month.”

Miller said collections over the past 12 months totaled $10.259 billion; the highest level since July 2009, when 12-month collections totaled $10.402 billion.

Debt ceiling and weak national growth

Miller said Oklahoma’s economy has most likely felt the dampening effects of forces outside its borders.

“It is likely the showdown over the federal debt ceiling negatively impacted Oklahoma by providing uncertainty to markets and eroding producer, consumer and investor confidence in the recovery,” he said.

“Although the compromise bill is a small step in the right direction and stems the immediate crisis, it does little to address the systemic federal spending problem and nothing to actually reduce debt that is 100 percent of our GDP. With passage of the bill, the U.S. will still borrow money to finance current expenditures and will continue to add to our national debt.

“I hardly think Washington should congratulate itself for averting an economic meltdown of its own making,” Miller continued.

“Predictions that states will bear the burden of federal cuts seem to be overstated. The spending reductions are relatively small with the more significant cuts years away and entitlement spending, like Medicaid, completely exempt from the cuts. To the extent that future costs are shifted to the states, that will provide further opportunity to force better prioritization and to re-examine the proper role of government,” he concluded.

Because macro conditions eventually affect Oklahoma, recent national economic data is also of concern, Miller said.

“Data released last week by the Bureau of Economic Analysis show the U.S. economy expanded at an annual rate of just 1.3 percent in the second quarter, not near as strong as expected,” he said. “Of even more concern is that revisions to first quarter GDP show growth at only 0.4 percent.”

Projections of national economic growth have been scaled back recently due to flat job growth numbers, geopolitical factors and data from the Institute for Supply Management that show worsening manufacturing conditions.

July collections up by almost seven percent

The revenue report for July shows gross collections at $845.44 million, up $53.82 million or 6.8 percent from July of last year. That compares to year-over-year growth of 15.5 percent in June.
