Gross Receipts to the Treasury Continue Climb

OKLAHOMA CITY – October was another good month for Oklahoma’s economy, as measured by the monthly gross receipts to the treasury report issued today by State Treasurer Ken Miller.

Miller said the positive October report was again led by collections from the gross production tax on oil and natural gas, up by almost 16 percent and in positive territory for a sixth, consecutive month.

“Oklahoma’s economy appears resilient and is not yet showing negative effects of the 16-day shutdown of the federal government and the last-minute avoidance of a debt ceiling crisis,” Miller said. “All major tax categories showed growth, indicating the state economy is continuing to expand.”

The only major revenue stream falling below collections from last October is the usually volatile corporate income tax, which is down by almost 11 percent. The tax commission reports it has recently paid some large refunds due to amended returns filed for prior years. This month, the commission reports, it paid out about $11 million in refunds.

Year-over-year growth of 7 percent for total collections in October is the third highest increase in the past year.

Concerns

Miller said potential concerns are on the horizon, most related to Washington, D.C.

“As families and small businesses receive notices about changes to their health insurance coverage, potential economic effects of uncertainty over health insurance costs starting in January could cause problems,” he said.

The Business Conditions Index for Oklahoma slipped further below growth neutral in October. The leading economic indicator dropped to 48.6 from 49.2 in September. Numbers above 50 mean growth is expected. The survey of supply managers in the state showed new orders at 51.6, production or sales at 46.1, inventories at 48.8 and employment at 48.7.

Miller said the less than positive outlook among supply managers could be the result of the federal government shutdown and related political fighting in Washington.

Oklahoma unemployment figures have not been updated since August due to the federal government shutdown. The state’s jobless rate for September and October are scheduled to be released on November 22, according to the Oklahoma Employment Security Commission.
