

SCOTT MEACHAM
OKLAHOMA STATE TREASURER

For Immediate Release: October 11, 2010

Almost $300,000 in Unclaimed Property Found
During 2010 Tulsa State Fair

OKLAHOMA CITY — Cash and stock worth almost $300,000 was found for 464 people attending the 2010 Tulsa State Fair, State Treasurer Scott Meacham announced today. The money was found for fair patrons who visited the treasurer’s “Pot of Gold” booth in the Quik Trip Center.

As administrator of Oklahoma’s unclaimed property program, Meacham has more than $300 million for more than 500,000 people.

The $298,304 was found by treasurer’s workers with laptop computers who conducted 4,422 searches at this year’s fair. This was the sixth consecutive year Meacham and his staff operated the booth at the Tulsa fair.

“Even though the fair is over, Oklahomans can always search for unclaimed property on our web site, www.treasurer.ok.gov,” Meacham said. “Our service is always free. There is never a charge for returning lost money to its rightful owners.”

Last month, Meacham and staff found almost $400,000 for more than 500 visitors to the Oklahoma State Fair in Oklahoma City. Since first setting up the booths at the two major state fairs, more than $4.4 million has been found for more than 10,000 fair goers.

The largest amount found at the Tulsa fair this year was more than $88,000 in stock for a woman in Owasso.

Examples of unclaimed property include bank accounts, security deposits, old paychecks, overpayments, royalties, rebates, stock and bonds. The contents of abandoned safe deposit boxes are also included.

The cash and property are turned over to the State Treasurer’s office when the businesses holding them lose track of the owners. Treasurer Meacham’s Unclaimed Property Division then publishes the names, operates an online search engine at www.treasurer.ok.gov and conducts other outreach, such as booths at the two major state fairs, to help find the owners.
